

MAO TSE-TUNG

Move Into Rural Areas Challenges Old Stronghold

TOKYO (AP) — Followers of Mao Tse-tung disclosed today that his opponents have extended their "counteroffensive" from the cities to the countryside in a bid to win over Red China's 500-million peasants.

It was a direct challenge to Mao, who in the past has managed to hold the support of the peasants who make up two thirds of the mainland population.

Peasants Are Target

Supporters of Mao's chief foe, President Liu Shao-chi, were reported trying to influence the peasants the same way they did workers in the industrial centers — through economic benefits.

A Japanese correspondent in Peking reported bloody clashes took place between followers of Mao and Liu in Shenyang, Harbin and Dairen in Manchuria and Chengchow in central China. He said wall posters reported 58 persons were injured Dec. 21 when about 3,000 Red Guards who had swung over to Liu's side clashed with 600 Maoists in Dairen, major port and gateway to Manchuria.

Clash With Guards

The correspondent said anti-Mao textile workers and their supporters clashed with pro-Mao Red Guards on Jan. 7-8 in Chengchow. One person was reported killed and 23 seriously injured, he said.

Six persons were reported seriously injured and scores slightly hurt Jan. 6 in similar clashes in Shenyang, the report added.

A Chinese woman arriving in Hong Kong from Canton said about 100 Chinese burned Mao in effigy in that southern city Wednesday. Hundreds of bystanders cheered and applauded, the woman said.

Offer Bigger Shares

The New China News Agency, in Chinese-language reports broadcast by Peking Radio, indicated that Mao's opponents were trying to win over the peasants by giving them bigger individual shares of the traditional year-end distribution of produce.

This produce is usually apportioned to the state, the commune, and individual members of the commune.

During the turmoil since New Year's Day, Communist China's official news outlets have repeatedly accused Mao's opponents of trying to win workers with "economism" — promises of higher wages and other economic benefits.

Can't Be Specific Yet Ford Sure of Cuts to Avoid Tax Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said today "Congress can cut the President's budget sufficiently to avoid a tax increase." But until Congress gets the budget, he added, "it is impossible to be specific about budget cuts."

In reply to questions submitted by The Associated Press, Ford said his opposition to the President's proposal for a 6 percent surcharge on corporate and most individual income taxes "is based on the economic indicators as they presently exist."

"Balancing the economy is more important than balancing the budget," he said.

GOP Responds Tonight

Ford's views were given in advance of tonight's Republican response to President Johnson's State of the Union message. The Michigan Republican will outline the GOP domestic program and Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen will discuss foreign affairs.

Dirksen told a reporter it was far to say that he would give Johnson's Vietnam course a general endorsement but reserve the right to criticize particulars. He added he will have

Chest Culminates Year With Awards; $282,572 Realized

The crowning event of the 1967 Ulster County Community Chest campaign — Achievement Night at the Governor Clinton Hotel Wednesday night — was tempered with sage advice that "progress is not built on success gone by."

Many Receive Awards
That was the sentiment of George W. Tamke, associate chairman of the recently concluded drive which raised $282,572.22 of the $299,600 goal set for the operation of the 13-member agencies.

Tamke, general manager of IBM Systems Manufacturing at the Kingston plant, spelled out his aspirations for next year when he'll serve as general chairman.

The IBM official's views concluded last night's first annual Achievement Night dinner at which a host of awards were given in recognition of outstanding work by various persons.

Charles E. Raible, 1967 general manager and vice-president of Rotron Manufacturing Co., Woodstock, who made most of the presentations, reflected that the result of the 1967 campaign — showing a 94.3 per cent success — is a clear indication of what this community can do.

Referring to the $299,600 as perhaps a "shocking goal" at the outset, Raible said the challenge was accepted and "all put forth their all" to make it the success it was.

Raible voiced confidence about 1968 when he said the past year's results will make people know more about the Chest. "Not only in the great percentage-wide returns but through the all-out efforts such as the kickoff meeting, parade and fireworks plus the culminating event—the spectacular radio-telethon." He staunchly defended expenses incurred in the fireworks display.

Denies Cover-up Of Salary Hike

A charge made Wednesday in Washington by Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick, Ellenville Democrat, that the Ulster County Board of Supervisors "didn't even have the nerve to publicize" the fact that Ulster County Welfare Officer Joseph Fitzsimmons, Town of Woodstock Republican, was granted an increase in salary from $8,900 in 1966 to $12,000 in 1967, was challenged today by Chairman Charles Relyea, Town of Hurley Republican.

Relyea called attention to the fact that all raises were noted in the tentative budget which was before the public hearing, including the proposed raise to Commissioner Fitzsimmons.

Disproved By Vote

An allegation by Congressman Resnick that "this is a prime example of the product of an entrenched power structure, a one-party hierarchy, which for years has been able to trample upon public opinion and get away with it," is disproved by the vote on adoption of the budget.

The budget in which the increase for Commissioner Fitzsimmons appeared on Page 36, was adopted by a vote of 24 to 9, with three supervisors voting against adoption. Six Democratic supervisors voted against adoption of the budget and six Democratic members of the board voted for adoption, including Minority Leader Roger Mabie of Esopus.

Other Democratic supervisors voting for adoption were Thomas J. Shay of Lloyd, Michael Canosa of Marlboro, John J. Luceri of the fifth Ward, Irving Bell of the sixth Ward and Vincent J. Fallon of the 13th Ward.

The six Democratic supervisors who voted against adoption were George Barthel of Wawarsing, James J. Carroll of the 10th Ward, George Majestic of Gardiner, Joseph B. Scully of the fourth Ward, Arthur J. Smith of the eighth Ward and Daniel Smith of the seventh Ward.

Chairman Relyea today branded as "untrue" the statement by Congressman Resnick that the raise for Commissioner Fitzsimmons had not been "publicized," Relyea said "all raises in the budget" had been public property at the hearing on the budget prior to its adoption and reiterated a former statement that Commissioner Fitzsimmons had done and was doing a "good job."

All Stated

The raises in salary for heads of departments in county government were all specifically stated, in the budget.

On page 36 of the 1967 budget as presented at the public hearing and later adopted appears the line item:

"Commissioner. Budget as modified 1966 $8,900. Departmental Request $13,000. Budget Officer Recommended $12,000."

Copies of the tentative 1967 budget were available to the public at the public hearing.

The increase in salary for Commissioner Fitzsimmons was one of several substantial increases granted other heads of departments. Among the department heads who received increases of a substantial amount were County Treasurer Fred DuBois from $8,900 to $11,000; Commissioner of Health from $17,500 to $20,000 and County Clerk from $8,900 to $11,000.

According to the Associated Press, Resnick in Washington yesterday before Congress "condemns the Ulster County, N. Y. supervisors for giving Welfare Commissioner Joseph Fitzsimmons a $3,000 raise during the height of the Liumi adoption controversy."

According to the Associated Press, "The Ellenville Democrat charged angrily Wednesday that the supervisors didn't even have the nerve to publicize this fact."

Commissioner Fitzsimmons was the center of a dispute following an unsuccessful attempt to prevent Mr. and Mrs. Michael Liumi of Tillson from adopting a 4½-year old foster child who had been boarded at the Liumi home since she was 5 days old. 144 KIA, 1,044 Wounded, Six Missing Yank Casualties Reach New Week's High of War

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland's headquarters announced today that American forces in Vietnam suffered nearly 1,200 casualties last week, their highest weekly total of the Vietnam war.

The U.S. command said 144 men were killed, 1,044 were wounded and six were missing in the week that ended at midnight Saturday. The previous high was in the week ending last Sept. 24, when 970 Americans were killed, wounded or missing.

Many in 'Triangle'

Many of last week's casualties were sustained in Operation Cedar Falls in the "iron triangle" north of Saigon, the biggest ground sweep of the war. While there were no large-scale battles, there were numerous small clashes and the number of men deployed — estimated at more than 30,000 — exceeded any operation of the war.

Action in Operation Cedar Falls continued today at a steady pace.

B52 bombers struck at Communist fortifications and tunnels at noon on the northern edge of the iron triangle 29 miles northwest of Saigon. The raid, the 13th by the B52s in support of the vast sweep operation, destroyed 12 buildings, 325 feet of trenches, 59 bunkers and three tunnels, a U.S. spokesman reported.

In ground action in South Vietnam, U.S. headquarters reported only patrol clashes apart from the iron triangle operation. South Vietnamese headquarters said government troops killed 24 Viet Cong in two engagements.

Sept. Previous High

The total of 1,194 American casualties last week topped a previous high of 970 killed, wounded or missing during the week that ended last Sept. 24. The casualties last week included the highest number of wounded of any week of the war, exceeding the previous high of 825 during that same September week, and the third highest number of combat dead.

The week of the most American dead ended Nov. 20, 1965, when 240 were killed, most of them in the first battle of the Ia Drang Valley. In the week that ended last May 21, 146 U.S. troops were reported killed, two more than last week.

U.S. headquarters announced enemy dead last week totaled 1,176, double the total the week before, while South Vietnamese headquarters said its forces lost 197 killed and 45 missing.

Last week's casualties brought the total American casualties reported in the war to 6,875 dead and 39,261 wounded.

Plan Merging, Phasing Out of 33 U.S. and 6 Overseas Facilities

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon aims to save more than $37 million yearly by merging or phasing out 33 military bases and activities in the United States and 6 overseas facilities, it was learned today. More than 1,400 civilian jobs would be eliminated.

Sixth Since 1961

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara tells a news conference today about the new consolidation move, his sixth since 1961.

Informed sources said the new cutbacks also will involve the transfer of 3,000 other civilian employees and 1,700 military workers. The informants added, however, that all career civilian employees whose jobs will be eliminated by the new actions will be immediately offered different positions by the Defense Department.

The 33 cutbacks in the United States are spread unevenly across the nation, with Alabama, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Texas and Washington each losing three facilities, California, Massachusetts, New York and Ohio each will lose two facilities.

Largest From Seaplanes

The largest savings — about $20.8 million annually — will be gained by phasing out all of the Navy's antisubmarine P-5 seaplanes by 1968 and their support facilities at 12 bases around the world. Informants emphasized that the phaseout of the seaplanes will not shut down overall activities of the air bases.

They added that McNamara's decision to cut out the seaplane operations was based on evidence indicating it is cheaper and easier to support similar antisubmarine operations with land-based planes.

The following major economy steps also will be taken, sources said:

Would Close Hancock

The Naval Supply Center at Bayonne, N.J., will be shut down by the end of the year with much of its functions transferred to Norfolk, Va., annual savings will total $3.5 million.

Historic Fort Hancock, N.J., in Lower New York Bay near Coney Island will be closed by December 1968 at a savings of $1 million a year.

All 14 Army Reserve Corp headquarters will be deactivated by December 1968 at an annual savings of about $8.5 million. The headquarters now serve as a link between the headquarters of the continental armies and sector commanders in supervising reserve functions. By 1969 these functions will be completely absorbed by the continental Army headquarters.

The 1st Naval District at Boston will be merged with the 3rd at New York to cover New England, New York and northern New Jersey. This action, to be completed by the end of this year, will save $495,000 annually. (Continued on Page 30, Col. 6)

County Has First Sub-Zero Reading Of Winter Season

Ulster County and New York State remained in a pocket of Arctic cold today plunging mercury readings in the county to minus 5 and down to 35 below zero in the northern parts of the state. More of the same is expected for Friday.

An unofficial 5 below zero was reported at Belleayre Ski Center this morning, and according to the Associated Press -45 was recorded at Wanakena in the northwestern Adirondacks.

4 Above in City

The official overnight low recorded by Kingston City Engineers was 4 above at 7:15 a. m. However, unofficial readings of zero were reported in various parts of the city early today.

An unofficial reading of -4 was reported in Tillson and -2 in Zena, the icebox of the county. Zero was reported at Ellenville, New Paltz and the Gatehouse at Ashokan Reservoir.

Plus 10 was reported at Highland Water Plant, Blue Mountain had plus 2 and Woodstock plus 4.

In Greene County, Leeds state police reported an unofficial minus 2.

Light Snow for Some

Elsewhere in the state temperature may moderate slowly in the east, the Weather Bureau reported, and light snow was on the horizon in some areas.

The -35 at Wanakena, in the northwestern Adirondacks, was "not bad at all," said a spokesman at the state's forest ranger school there, where such readings are common.

It was well below zero in many spots, particularly in northern and southwestern areas. Those on the minus side included:

Bemus Point, near Jamestown, -25; Sinclairville and other points in the Jamestown area, -22; Massena 21; Plattsburgh 15; Glens Falls 10; Oneonta 8; Watertown, Rome, Syracuse and Albany 5; Utica 2; Elmira 1. Binghamton recorded an even zero. Other readings ranged upward to New York City's 13.

Albany Battle Shaping Rocky Tries Again on Local Apport

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The stage was set in the Legislature today for another battle over reapportioning city councils, county boards of supervisors and similar legislative bodies.

Gov. Rockefeller signaled a new round of conflict on the issue by sending to the lawmakers Wednesday a local apportionment bill identical to one turned by Democrats last year.

The 1966 measure was passed by the Republican-controlled Senate but killed in committee in the Assembly, where Democrats hold sway. They had their own rival plan.

Start From Scratch

Efforts to work out a compromise last year came to no avail, and the competing political forces are starting out this year from the same basic positions.

The chief difference between the two plans is that the Republican bill is calculated to help Upstate counties preserve traditional town and village units of representation, while the Democratic measure would tend to disrupt these patterns — breaking up old GOP bastions.

Rockefeller's move highlighted activity at the Capitol, while the Legislature was in recess.

Solon Return Monday

The lawmakers will return to working sessions Monday. Meanwhile, there were other developments:

— Rockefeller submitted his annual deficiency appropriation bills, measures designed to adjust the $4 - billion budget plan adopted last year. He sought net additional appropriations of $25.3 million, including $10 million for the state's textbook-loan program.

— Republican senators came up with a plan they said would vitalize urban renewal efforts across the state. They proposed to establish two non-profit corporations to spur residential, commercial and industrial development.

Rockefeller's apportionment bill would provide official guidelines for communities struggling to conform with the U.S. Supreme Court's "one-man, one-vote" edict on legislative representation.

In a memorandum accompanying the bill, Rockefeller noted that courts had ordered several counties to reapportion their boards of supervisors but (Continued on Page 26, Col. 6)

Name Delegates To Fire Parleys

Delegates to various firemen conventions were named at the January meeting of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association at the Port Ewen firehouse Tuesday night. The Association was guest of the Port Ewen Fire Department.

Frank Chapple, president of the Port Ewen Department, welcomed the guests and President Robert Kuhar presided.

Secretary Fred C. Harder was named delegate to the Firemen's Association of the State of New York which will be meeting in Albany Aug. 20-23. Morton Finch was named alternate. President Kuhar of Ellenville was named delegate to the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association which will hold its convention in Kingsbury June 15-17. Rodney DuBois was named alternate.

There were 37 companies represented at the meeting with a total attendance of 125 members. Thomas Lamb Sr. of Hasbrouck Engine Company of Connelly was elected a member.

A communication was read from the chairman of the State Legislative Committee suggesting that the County Association appoint a committee to discuss fireman matters to be suggested to the State Constitutional Convention which will meet in April. Should it be deemed advisable the delegates from the various County Firemanic groups will meet in Albany prior to April and discuss recommendations which will be made to the State Constitutional Convention. Proposals will be forwarded to Fred A. Williams, chairman of the State Legislative Committee, by Feb. 25.

An invitation was extended to members to attend the Orange County Association meeting with Coldenham Fire Company Jan. 31. The meetings will be held at Coldenham Elementary School, Route 17.

Secretary Harder reported on the progress of the room which will be furnished by the Ulster County Association at the Firemen's Home in Hudson. The room will be furnished in memory of Henry Ulrich, long associated with firemanic affairs in the county.

Ulster County Fire Coordinator Winfred Snyder of Hurley filed his monthly report in which he reported a total of 599 calls received at Fire Control Headquarters during December. There were 59 fires, 4 Mutual Aid calls and 23 emergency calls. There were no false alarms during the month and one Inter-county call, Marlboro to Orange County.

The meeting was adjourned out of respect to the memory of William Steiger, a member of C. A. Lynch Engine Company of Saugerties, who died in Vietnam Dec. 3.

HONORED ON RETIREMENT — A retirement party was given for Mrs. Lucile Davidson last week at the Governor Clinton Hotel by some 60 Avon representatives and company officials. Mrs. Davidson joined Avon in 1935 and came to Kingston as district manager in 1947. She was honored with many gifts and floral tributes.

Asked about future plans, Mrs. Davidson said "I am just going to take a good rest and get better acquainted with my grandchildren. Looking on as Mrs. Davidson cuts her cake at the party are (l-r) Mrs. John Leonard, a daughter; David Ding, Avon official and Miss Jane Davidson, another daughter.

Ex-Resident

Appoint Newkirk Acting Head of Upstate Academy

A former Kingston resident has been appointed acting principal at the Canandaigua Academy. He is William G. Newkirk, 45, chairman of the social studies department at the Academy.

Newkirk, who attended Kingston High School and Hartwick College, Oneonta, assumed his new duties on Jan. 13 and will serve until the end of the school year, according to School Superintendent Robert D. Helmer.

Newkirk will temporarily fill the post vacated by John R. Smingler, who was appointed deputy director of Breakinridge Job Corps Center, Morganfield, Ky.

In a letter to the Academy's teaching staff, Helmer said:

"No attempt will be made to appoint a permanent successor to Smingler at this time. In the near future, the superintendent will recommend to the Board of Education a suggested selection procedure.

"It should be our goal to have a successor in this position by July 1, 1967.

"In the interim, William Newkirk has agreed to assume the responsibility as acting principal. As such, he is delegated all the authority and responsibility as of a principal.

"Mr. Newkirk will be relieved of all other responsibilities as soon as adequate arrangements can be made."

The school superintendent also said that Vincent Hayes, vice-principal, will continue in that post.

"With Mr. Newkirk serving as acting principal and Mr. Hayes continuing as an active vice-principal we believe we can preserve maximum stability in the administration, both for students and teachers," Helmer said.

"It should be noted that both Mr. Newkirk and Mr. Hayes have indicated that they do not plan to be candidates for the principalship," Helmer continued. "We are grateful for their cooperation in the development of this arrangement."

Newkirk has been a teacher at the Academy for the last 18 years. He also has served as baseball coach and up until two years ago was coach of the JV basketball team. He and his wife have three children—Carol, who attends the University of Tampa, and William and Judy, students at the Academy.

Placards Oppose Ky in Australia

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Opponents of the Vietnam war carried "Killer Ky go home" placards in downtown Canberra Wednesday as South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky arrived for a nine-day visit to Australia and New Zealand.

The public was barred from the Australian air force base where Ky's plane landed, but several hundred demonstrators gathered outside the hotel where the premier was to hold a news conference later in the day.

"It is good to see you again," Prime Minister Harold Holt told Ky as the premier and his wife stepped from their plane. Both men attended the Manila summit conference last October, and Ky said then he would like to thank the people of Australia and New Zealand personally for their help to Vietnam.

Rocky Appoints Delmar Man to Succeed Seelsi

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller announced today the appointment of Robert D. Stone of suburban Delmar as his appointments officer — the dispenser of patronage jobs controlled by the governor.

Stone, who has been serving as deputy commissioner of the State Office of General Services, was chosen to succeed Michael N. Seelsi of Manhattan in the $29,160-a-year post.

Seelsi left the governor's staff Tuesday to accept Rockefeller's appointment to the State Civil Service Commission.

Stone, 44, joined the Rockefeller administration in January 1959 as executive deputy secretary of state. He had been practicing law in Binghamton.

After the Office of General Services was set up in 1960 to supervise housekeeping functions for the government, Stone transferred to the new unit as chief deputy to Commissioner Cortland V. R. Schuyler.

As appointments officer, he will receive and process requests for appointment by the governor to non-civil service jobs.

Stone was born in Lakewood, Ohio, and moved to Binghamton with his family during childhood. He is a graduate of Hamilton College and received his law degree from Columbia University.

He is married and the father of three daughters. The family lives at 198 Westchester Drive South in Delmar.

Thailand Fight Against Reds Planned on 2-Pronged Base

EDITOR'S NOTE—Fred Hoffman, AP military affairs writer, reports in this third article in a series on the steps being taken by Thai authorities to dampen the insurgency fires.

By FRED HOFFMAN

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — With strong American support and encouragement, Thailand is mounting a two-pronged off-

Captain Uninjured, Crash-Lands Craft

MILTON, Vt. (AP)—Air Force Capt. Frederick Snyder, 30, of Plattsburgh, N.Y., walked away uninjured Wednesday from a damaged, single-engine aircraft he was forced to crash-land.

Snyder told authorities the plane's engine stalled after the carburetor iced up over Lake Champlain.

Snyder brought the plane down in a field about three miles east of the lake. The craft was "moved when it nosed over into the snow."

Snyder, stationed at the Plattsburgh Air Force Base, was returning alone on a flight from Morrisville, Vt. A plane with skis was sent to Milton to return the pilot to Plattsburgh.

sive against the growing Communist insurgency problem in its northeast provinces.

The Thai approach to the threat is aimed at strengthening security in the vulnerable areas and at bringing the northeast into the mainstream of the nation's economic, political and social life.

Short and Long Range

"We're trying to do two things at once—throw water on a burning house and bring about long-range development," an American aid expert said.

In the security field, the Thais are centering their counterinsurgency measures in the national police, with the 85,000-man Thai army backing them up.

The national police have been beefed up to 55,000 men and the plan is to increase the force to 82,000 by midyear.

The target date for a general improvement in police and security operations is next June, and some of the programs are only now off the ground.

Police Militia

The main objectives are to promote what is called "remote area security" by stationing policemen in villages where they were only occasionally—and often unwelcome—visitors in the past; by creating a citizens' police militia, by organizing helicopter-borne "ouk" reaction strike forces, and by installing a wide-coverage police radio net.

The Thais also are trying to polish up the police image.

The police used to live off the peasants, demanding food and lodging. Now, officials say the police pay for these things. The government had been three years behind in paying police living expenses. This has been overcome.

U.S. Pays Bill

The police-oriented security program is being pushed with the aid of nearly $14 million in U.S. funds and 43 American advisers drawn from civilian U.S. police departments, FBI trained women, customs service veterans and the ranks of retired Army Special Forces officers.

Air Chief Marshal Dawee Chuvalasavva, Thailand's chief of staff, contends that "we can fight against the Communists by ourselves."

But he adds that his country needs more and better weapons and other equipment, and he does not rule out the possibility that Thailand may have to ask the United States for more direct aid.

"If the Communists get the upper hand in Vietnam," he says, "no doubt they will come in force against Thailand."

There are about 35,000 U.S. servicemen in Thailand, twice the commitment of a year ago. Of these, 25,000 are involved in air operations against North Vietnam and supply routes through Laos into South Vietnam. Many of the remaining 10,000 are building roads, bases and other facilities. Others are advisers attached to Thai military units.

A unit of 356 Special Forces troops is here to train Thais in counterinsurgency work.

No Fighting Ordered

All Americans working with Thai forces, a top U.S. military source said, "are ordered not to get involved in any fighting or to put themselves in a position where they might get involved."

Thailand's own defense force is small—upwards of 85,000 in the army and about 25,000 each in the navy and air force.

U.S. economic and technical aid to Thailand, all in the form of gifts, vaulted from $12.7 million in fiscal 1964 to more than 43 million last year.

LIFTING HORIZONS

The basic strategy in the war against poverty is helping the poor and disadvantaged to help themselves. And the key weapon in that strategy is summed up by one word—motivation.

One of the most striking examples of how motivation is achieved and how it works is the experience of Ohio University in its Teen-Age Teacher Aide Program, which is jointly funded by the Office of Economic Opportunity, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and the Department of Labor.

Last June, 133 teen-agers from very low income families in 10 Appalachian counties in Ohio and West Virginia were brought to the university for five weeks of social and cultural enrichment, combined with intensified training in how to work with preschool children. They then went back to their homes to work with university student sponsors in Headstart Centers for six weeks.

It was believed that when the youngsters found themselves involved in a worthy cause, probably for the first time in their lives, their sense of self-esteem, self-confidence and aspirations would be raised. It was also thought that teen-agers, because of their abundant qualities of energy, enthusiasm and capacity for love, would make ideal preschool teachers.

These beliefs were more than borne out. During the academic year, the youngsters are continuing to work after school with pre-schoolers. Some of them will come back to the university next summer to replace some of the college students to help train a new group of teen-agers. Most of them have already received offers of summer jobs in needy Appalachian schools.

But the real surprise is the number of the teen-agers who, having had no thought or hope of entering college before, now have strong ambitions to do so.

One girl summed up the influence the program has had on her in this way:

"I have changed a lot . . . I want to be a teacher because I know I can help little children and they need me."

That's motivation.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association has received requests for six new post-season football bowl games. Impossible! There aren't enough TV channels.

SAUCERS ALOFT AGAIN

Newspapers across the land have published what purport to be photographs of a saucer-shaped unidentified flying object taken by a couple of Michigan boys. For once the pictures of such an object, unlike most other alleged UFO pictures shown in the past, seem quite sharply defined.

One cannot fairly take the great leap and conclude that the object shown is indeed a visitant from another planet. It may be some new form of airborne vehicle, perhaps one being tested at Selfridge Air Force Base near the young brothers' home. Or possibly the boys, in a spirit of fun not unknown to boys and even to their elders on occasion, are spoofing the public.

If not—and we give them the benefit of the doubt—then something mighty strange was whizzing through Michigan skies. Many will be interested to hear what the scientists now investigating such phenomena have to say about this one.

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

AT THE TAG END OF THE GREAT SOCIETY

Let's put a number of things together. In Washington, Senator Abe Ribicoff of Connecticut says that the Great Society is "the end of an era." He goes on to explain that the time has come to find new ways of solving our perplexing, social problems that do not involve dropping them into the lap of the federal bureaucracy.

Senator Ribicoff is an old hand on Capitol Hill. A new hand, Senator Charles H. Percy of Illinois, just recently came to town with his own orchestration of Abe Ribicoff's feeling. While he was still running for the Senate, Chuck Percy had elaborated a scheme for creating a National Home Ownership Foundation as a non-profit corporation to lend rehabilitation money to local housing associations. Percy had been looking at the way things are done in Denmark, where there is a non-profit housing association federation, and he saw no reason that the idea couldn't be adapted in America. With the government guaranteeing a bond issue, money might be raised by a Home Ownership Loan Fund to enable local borrowers to finance the rebuilding of slum properties. These, in turn, would be sold to their occupants on an easy-payment basis. The result, as Percy puts it, would be to make "home ownership . . . available to families whose present incomes and circumstances do not permit them to become home owners." If successful, the Percy scheme would rekindle a pride of ownership which millions of Americans have lost and, at the same time, take a lot of decisions out of the hands of bureaucrats.

Ribicoff, of course, is a Democrat, and Percy is a Republican. While they were expressing a convergence in Washington, a curious thing was happening in New York City. It wasn't so long ago that Dr. Thomas Matthew, the Negro neurosurgeon of Queens County who has been trying to foot his 200-bed integrated Interfaith Hospital on a basis of voluntary loans to show that Negroes can do something for themselves, was appealing in desperation to Soviet Russia to lend him some capital. This was a dramatic gesture more than anything else, for Dr. Matthew certainly didn't expect Moscow to come through. But Dr. Matthew had failed to prod Governor Nelson Rockefeller and Senator Robert Kennedy, who have access to capital, into helping him with a corporation design to build Negro hospitals and housing on a basis of private loans.

In his desperation Dr. Matthew might have called it a day and gone out of business. But Timothy Costello, who is Republican Mayor John Lindsay's Liberal Party sidekick, suddenly became interested in Dr. Matthew's idea. The city of New York, needing hospital space for the treatment of chronic cases, started to make use of Dr. Matthew's beds. At this precise moment a bank decided to foreclose the mortgage on the hospital building which Dr. Matthew was renting. It was tough and go before Dr. Matthew could collect enough money to stave off the foreclosure, but he managed to do it.

At the time he was fending off the sheriff, Dr. Matthew had asked local Queens County citizens to help form a protective rail in front of his hospital. And who should spring to his aid this time but a number of Queens County members of the New York State Conservative Party, including Rosemary Gunning, who not so long ago was running for president of the New York Council on the Conservative ticket.

The more the Conservative Party leaders looked into Dr. Matthew's idea about Negro self-help, the better they liked it. So, while Democratic Senator Ribicoff and Republican Senator Percy were talking self-help in Washington, and while Liberal Party Timothy Costello was telling Republican-Interfaith Hospital represented something important, the New York Conservatives were holding a press conference at the Overseas Press Club in Manhattan to announce that they intended to help out with a drive to sell bonds to private financial foundation. Dr. Matthew may have been astounded to find himself adopted by Conservatives, but he didn't object.

Thus we have Republicans, Democrats, Liberals, Fusionists, and Conservatives all moving in the same direction, away from the Great Society notion that the Federal government must do everything, with the taxpayer being compelled to foot the bill. It looks as if the circle had finally been squared. Maybe Senator Ribicoff has something when he says the Great Society is "the end of an era." (Copyright, 1967, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Rehabilitation Measures

Now Help Stroke Victims

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—My mother recently died of a brain hemorrhage. Would the fact that she had high blood pressure for 10 years cause this?

A—Yes. When the arteries of the brain become hardened they are more brittle and less able to withstand an increase in pressure without breaking.

Q—I never had high blood pressure but I had a stroke in 1963. What could cause this? Is there any way to get back the use of my left hand?

A—The stroke syndrome is the result of a cutting off of the blood supply to a part of the brain. This may be sudden and severe due to a massive brain hemorrhage or the plugging of an artery in the brain by a clot that has broken loose in another part of the body and been carried to the brain. On the other hand, it may be gradual and relatively mild due to an obstruction in an artery of the brain itself by a slowly forming clot or deposits of calcium in the arterial wall. Early in the course of a stroke an attempt must be made to determine which cause is operating because the treatment of the two types is different. Much can be done for some stroke victims if rehabilitative measures are started promptly.

Q—Would a lack of vitamins cause shingles? What are the symptoms? Is it serious? What is the best treatment?

A—Shingles or herpes zoster is caused by the same virus that causes chicken pox. It is believed by some authorities to be a reactivation of the virus after it has lain dormant in a person whose attack of chicken pox several years earlier failed to produce complete immunity to it. Thus, it is not contagious in the ordinary sense.

The victim gets a series of small blisters along the course of one of the nerves that runs close to the skin. The lesions are itchy and are often painful. There is usually fever for a few days at the onset. Serious complications are rare but, if the optic nerve is involved, partial blindness may result.

Since there is no specific cure, treatment is aimed at relieving the pain with aspirin or codeine and making the victim as comfortable as possible while waiting for the disease to subside. If after four or five weeks the pain persists, it may be necessary to cut the involved nerve or inject it with boiling water.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

Venezuela, riding successfully through desperation - phase terrorism by Castroite Communists in Caracas, is strongly placed now to take the leader role in the 1967 Latin-American summit meeting - tentatively set for April.

The late-1966 Red outbreaks gave a misleading impression of resurgent Castroite strength. Earlier in the year, guerrilla bands roving the Venezuelan hinterland had been virtually destroyed as an organized force. Terroristic remnants, taking refuge in Caracas, picked up their old bombs-and-bullets routine in a last-gasp effort to discredit President Raul Leoni's viable democratic regime.

The undertaking was worse than futile. Leoni clamped down hard. He dared what no previous Venezuelan leader would do: He eliminated the Central University's status as a political (and terrorist) sanctuary, unearthing a rich cache of arms and arresting hundreds. He emerged stronger than before the bombs were thrown.

This course of events illustrates again the capacity of Communists to outflank themselves. They long ago targeted Venezuela's budding democracy as the ripest, most vulnerable spot for assault on the South American mainland. The net of their efforts has been to strengthen it.

Yet it would also be misleading to suggest that Leoni having carried the day with widespread popular support, Venezuela (not to mention the rest of Latin America) is henceforth safe from Red depredations. An underground of grave menace remains. Today's Latin-American poulation exceeds 200 million. In the final third of this century it is destined to triple. Tremendous economic growth rates will be needed to lift presently low living standards prevailing generally throughout Latin lands. Normally good growth rates—4 to 5 per cent a year—will barely enable these nations to hold their own against the population.

Venezuela's own economy has been banging along at an annual growth rate of 6 to 7 per cent, hopeful indeed. Still better news is the fact that it is steadily diversifying, to the point where manufacturing may soon pass the nation's celebrated oil output as the chief economic reliance.

But neither this nor any roughly comparable good news from other Latin countries provides any ground for complacency. The population imperative hangs like a sword over the whole continent and adjacent territories. Hence the importance of the forthcoming Latin summit.

At the "little summit" in Bogota last August, Leoni and Presidents Frei of Chile and Lleras of Colombia shaped a preliminary blueprint for harder, bigger endeavors in social reform and economic development.

The underlying idea is simple enough — to get a really mammoth undertaking fully rolling before the population explosion overwhelms Latin America and opens it far wider than today to the threat of Communist inroads.

The Alliance for Progress is hailed as offering great promise, largely unfulfilled. With leadership from the hopeful democracies, Venezuela, Colombia, Peru and Chile, the Latins believe they must point the way in the next big phase.

The Castroite Reds failed in their violent bid at Caracas, to undercut Venezuela's key part in the turning-point summit session coming this spring. But they may take legitimate hope again if that parley trails off in a torrent of words signifying nothing.

President Johnson's scheduled presence will have achieved much for hard-pressed Latin millions whose numbers vault higher every year.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By Sophie Miller

I had a chance to make a hurried visit to see the original designs sent in for the Civil War Stamp in the Gallery Halls of the Ulster County Community College. Professor Ruth Muroff, AID has arranged a remarkable exhibition of some 1,000 original designs. It seems there was a $500 award for the best Battle of Gettysburg stamp competition held February, 1963 by the United States Post Office Department. This was the first such contest ever sponsored by the Post Office Department open to all professional American artists and designers. The winner was Roy Gjertson of California. Anyone who is interested in stamps or art would enjoy this exhibit, and no doubt realize how many talented artists, unknown to us, who perhaps could design really exciting stamps. It really has been very difficult to really settle on the winner. The exhibit at the former No. 2 School building is open until Feb. 4, 1967 from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. Monday to Thursday and 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Friday.

I do not have the exact dates for the coming 1967 stamps, but I think Jan. 30 the 14¢ cent Albert Gallatin, stamp will be first day issued from Gallatin, Mo. The next should be the eight cent Alaska Centennial, Sitka, Alaska, on March 30, April 17, the five cent National Grange, from Washington, D. C. A July 4 Erie Canal, nickel stamp will come from Rome, New York. Before sending please check with your local post office as they have posters on their bulletin giving the final information and directions. It so happens, that the Gallatin Stamp was designed by Robert Gallatin. Artist and man on stamp are remotely related, which is unique in the history of U.S. postage stamps.

Stamp collectors like to decorate their envelopes with this type of stamp, as they can use a block of them. Remember that a First Day of Issue cover has to have five cents worth of stamps to cover it. According to Linn's Weekly Stamp News, Artist Gallatin, who is a historian and interested in genealogy for the Gallatin family, on reading that a Gallatin stamp was to be part of the new "Prominent Americans" submitted his stamp design.

Republicans Demand Equal TV Coverage to Answer LBJ

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Equal treatment—this is what all three television networks are being asked to give tonight to a "State of the Union" message by the joint leadership of the Republican party in the House and the Senate.

The networks are willing to broadcast a half-hour program at various times convenient to their schedules on different days. But both Senator Everett Dirksen of Illinois and Representative Gerald R. Ford of Michigan have insisted that it should be what is known as live coverage. This means that the Republican leaders themselves would appear on the major television networks simultaneously and read the report they have written in rebuttal to the message delivered by President Johnson last week.

The television networks were asked last year to broadcast a live television program, but they did not accede to the request. The reason why the Republican leaders are insisting on live coverage is that this is one way by which the whole television audience could be mobilized at the same time. When the President was speaking at 9:30 p. m. on the night of Jan. 10, there were no other programs competing with him on the three networks.

So, even though "equal time" may be given, the total number watching such a program is less when there are competitive shows being broadcast.

There is no law which requires simultaneous coverage by the networks. It would have been possible for one of them to make a tape of the President's speech and send it out over the air either later the same night or the next day. The broadcasting companies, of course, have a right to use their own judgment in making up their schedules. Newspapers, too, differ in the display they give to a presidential message—some start it on the first page, some put it on one of the back pages, and still others publish only excerpts.

But the broadcasting networks are deriving a special privilege from the government itself. They pay no fee to the federal government, and yet individual stations are granted licenses to broadcast. The only criteria in the law governing the allocation of the frequencies or channels are "public convenience, interest, or necessity."

Laws on the subject of "equal time" have been passed by Congress, but, generally speaking, these were presumed to apply only to speeches of candidates during the period of political campaigns. The Federal Communications Commission, however, has proclaimed what is known as the "Fairness doctrine." It declares that "equal time" must be given always for University students of medieval Europe lived a rigorous life compared with their modern counterparts. According to The World Almanac, classes were held in rooms rented by the teacher or in a church if one was available. Students often sat on the floor and listened to a lecture entirely in Latin. Since there was no paper and parchment and books were expensive, most students were forced to memorize as many of the professor's words as they could.

Directors Renamed

DeWitt Reflects 1967 Optimism In Bank Report

"The outlook for 1967 is not quite clear, although there is every indication that it will be better than 1966."

That tone of optimism was noted in the annual report of the picture at First Federal Savings and Loan Association presented Wednesday night by Dewese W. DeWitt, president, at the annual membership meeting at 235 Fair Street.

"The past year has seen great changes in the home building industry and these have been reflected in the operation of your Association," DeWitt said.

Modest Assets Gain

He reported that total assets of the Association showed a modest gain, $1M to close the year at $30,466,791. "This is more than double the size of the Association at the time when we received our Federal Charter in 1961," the Association president said.

Directors were elected, and announcement was made that the annual organizational meeting will be held Jan. 25 for the election of officers of the Association. The meeting will be conducted at 4:15 p. m. in the directors' suite at 235 Fair Street.

Re-elected directors for the next three years were John B. Sterley, Wilmer S. Nickerson and Clair S. Sheaffer. Directors whose terms continue are Harry Halverson, George C. Swart, Robert A. MacKinnon, Joseph J. Kelly, George Svirsky and George W. Tamke.

DeWitt was most optimistic in outlining the goals of 1967.

The annual report presented by the Association president follows:

"As we come together tonight for the annual meeting of the members of First Federal Savings and Loan Association, it is appropriate that I tell you something of our accomplishments in 1966 and look forward a little as to what 1967 holds for us."

Notes Civic Activities

"Before I start on a review of our operations I want to take a few minutes to congratulate our board members and staff on the many civic activities in which they participated during 1966. I do not dare attempt to mention each director by name as I feel sure I would omit someone. However, I would like to mention some of the organizations that I know have had the benefit of the talents of our board members and staff during 1966; Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, Uptown Business Men's Association, Central Business Men's Association, Kingston Area Community Chest, Heart Association, Cancer Association, Mid-Hudson Patterns for Progress Inc., Republican Party, most of the local church organizations, Ulster County Board of Realtors, Dutchess County Board of Realtors, Home Builders Association of the Hudson Valley, American Legion, Hudson Valley Philharmonic Association, Board of Trustees of the YWCA, Children's Home, Kingston Hospital, Benedictine Hospital and March of Dimes. This is quite an impressive list and I am sure that the activities of our directors and staff have greatly aided the work of these organizations. I hope that a year from now I will have an even greater list to read."

"At the organization meeting a year ago an entire new concept was adopted which gave separate board and administration leadership. To accomplish this John B. Sterley was made chairman of the board and the directors operated on a policy making level under Mr. Sterley's leadership. Dewese W. DeWitt was made president and the entire administrative leadership was placed in his hands. He is assisted by Alexander J. McKittrick who was made executive vice president in charge of day to day operations. This left a vacancy in the management of our Hyde Park Office and Jane K. Murphy was advanced to this position with the title of Assistant Secretary."

Other Staff Officers

"Our other staff officers are: William F. Paulus, assistant vice-president; Sam D. Bradley, assistant vice-president; Rosalind B. Wilber, administrative assistant; and William D. Costello, auditor."

"The past year has seen great changes in the home building industry and these have been reflected in the operation of your association. The year 1966 started out with every indication that it would approximate 1965. Then about April 1 the yield on Government securities began to rise and the interest rate paid on Certificates of Deposit by Commercial Banks rose above the rate paid by Savings and Loan Associations and Savings Banks on passbook accounts. This resulted in heavy withdrawals from Savings Institutions throughout the country. Savings and Loans have been the traditional lenders for mortgage purposes and in many cases they were obliged to cancel mortgage commitments. This, of course, resulted in whole-sale curtailment of construction of homes because of lack of financing. I am happy to report to you that First Federal had over one million dollars in outstanding commitments and did not cancel a single one. Every one of our builders was able to continue his operations to the extent that he could make sales. This has resulted in the creation of much goodwill among our builders which we feel sure will be translated into additional business as housing demands increase. At the close of the year we had made 252 loans for a total amount of $3,538,600.00.

"As the tight money situation developed your Association took advantage of the new types of Savings authorized by the Federal Home Loan Bank and on Oct. 1 offered 5 per cent Savings Certificates on amounts from $2000 to $5000 and 5 1/2 per cent on amounts of $5000 and up. This is the highest rate authorized by any Savings Institution in New York State. In this manner we were able to keep our savings intact and still show a gain for the year of $572,000. We are also pleased to tell you that we added the required amount to our statutory reserves."

"Total assets of your Association showed a modest gain one million dollars to close the year at $30,466,791. This is more than double the size of the Association at the time when we received our Federal Charter in 1961."

Dividends Hit Peak

"Dividends distributed to our savers reached an all time high of one million one hundred thirty-one thousand dollars."

"During the past year the Congress raised the amount of insurance of accounts from $10,000 to $15,000 and now all accounts are insured to this amount."

"On October 1 your board of directors decided to reinstate the monthly installment Bonus Savings Account. This is the type of account which was used by associations when they were first started over 130 years ago and rewards the small saver with an extra dividend for saving systematically. These accounts are available for saving sums from $1 to $25 each month."

Early in the year it became apparent that changes would be required at our Central Broadway Office. Our lease was expiring Aug. 1 and we would be obliged to get a favorable renewal, close the office, or move to a new location. We made an extensive survey of the whole situation and weighed each possibility. Our final decision was to buy the Wilde building and remodel it to suit our needs. This was accomplished with the assistance of Architect Harry Halverson and Henry H. Swart and Son as general contractors. The result was the finest example of Colonial design that has been seen in Kingston. We also have a most functional office. Judging by the comments we received at our grand opening Dec. 10 and by the large number of new accounts opened we are sure that the decision was a wise one."

"The outlook for 1967 is not quite clear, although there is every indication that it will be better than 1966. President Johnson in his State of the Union message indicated that more money would be available at lower rates of interest. Should this prediction come to pass we can look forward to being better able to serve our mortgage customers. The money that has been going out of Savings and Loans throughout the country during 1966 will begin to come back as investment opportunities at high rates of interest outside our industry begin to dry up."

Must Look to Savers

"As you all know we must look to our savers to provide the money to help prospective home owners buy and build their homes. Therefore, money invested in your Association here in Kingston serves a two-fold purpose—to give you a good rate of return on your money and to help buy and build homes in this area. We are thus able to accomplish the purpose of a Savings and Loan Association—to encourage thrift and to provide the means for home ownership."

O'Connor Proposes L. I. for Jetport

NEW YORK (AP) — City Council President Frank D. O'Connor proposed Wednesday that the metropolitan area's fourth jet airport be built at Calverton, 70 miles out on Long Island.

The facility would cost about $600 million, but also would require road, rail and other improvements to make it fully operational.

Trains at speeds of 160 miles an hour would connect the jetport with New York and Boston.

O'Connor introduced his proposal at a City Hall news conference attended by aides and airline industry representatives.

See Sales Trend Change for Big Area Pear Crop

A growing trend, especially evident in Ulster County, may have a pronounced effect on New York State's biggest industry — fresh fruit growing.

The trend, according to William Palmer, Ulster County Agricultural Extension agent, is the use of pears grown here for fresh fruit markets rather than for the baby food market.

Production Booming

Palmer made the prediction after being contacted by The Freeman in response to an Associated Press release. The release quoted Professor Elmer Hansen of the State Agriculture College in Ithaca as saying "The booming outlook for pear-growing in New York State forebodes a marketing problem."

Palmer explained, "Ulster and Columbia Counties are this state's biggest producers of pears. According to our figures for 1965 a total of 4,676,000 pounds were produced in Ulster County. Figured on an average of 50-pounds per bushel that's about 95,000 to 100,000 bushels for this county alone."

(According to Prof. Hansen's figures, total state production last year was 850,000 bushels. And Palmer had indicated that Ulster County's figures were probably a lot higher in 1966 since "This production is going up all the time.")

Regarding Prof. Hansen's description of the "booming outlook," Palmer noted this is "more evident in the western states, although whatever effects a part of the market effects us all."

Has Solution

The professor, speaking before members of the State Horticultural Society in Rochester, had cited "controlled" atmosphere storage in space left over from present apple storage" as one possible solution. Palmer confirmed this, commenting that "a number" of local farmers are investigating this possibility.

"After all," he said, "of the total industry apples are the biggest part . . . although pears certainly are a big part of any producer's income."

(Palmer also noted that Prof.

Hansen will be among the guest speakers at the Eastern Division, State Horticultural Society meeting in Kingston next week, in the Kingston Armory.)

The agricultural agent said that of Ulster and Columbia Counties' production, "perhaps half or more" pears are used in baby foods and that western states provide most of the pears eaten fresh.

"But this seems to be changing and it can be seen best in Ulster County, where more and more pears are being purchased for resale as fresh fruit," he pointed out.

When staining new wood, whether paneling, moldings or window casings, always apply a coat of sealer before using the stain. Without a sealer, a mottled effect results.

Programs, Personnel Are Reviewed by RVCS Board

The January meeting of the Rondout Valley Central School Board of Education was given over in part to an executive session reviewing the program and personnel of the Rondout Valley Central Schools.

A review of cafeteria operation included the study of a report by Mrs. Helen L. Diehl, a supervisor of the State Education Department, who visited the Rondout Valley District in December, viewing food service operation in the high school and in the Marletown and Kerhonkson Elementary Schools.

Among Mrs. Diehl's recommendations were: a review of the lunch prices charged, with the aim of bringing them into more realistic alignment with costs; a fund to assist children whose lunch or milk money is forgotten or lost; serving of foods rich in Vitamin C daily, and of foods high in mineral iron frequently; the eventual employment of a qualified cook-manager at the high school and a full-time clerk, so that the district manager might devote more time to the development and strengthening of the entire school lunch program.

A recommendation of the school lunch manager, David Mabie, to raise student double lunch from 50 to 60 cents was accepted.

The board approved the appointment of Miss Judith Rubin, a 1966 New Paltz graduate, as a kindergarten teacher in the Accord School beginning this month.

New York State law requires all school districts to establish classes for emotionally disturbed children. Rondout has the option of forming its own classes or co-operating with the Board of Cooperative Educational Services in an Ulster County Program. A careful review of figures indicated that going with BOCES would result in a financial saving, and the recommendation to enter into such an agreement was approved.

In a discussion of policies and procedures, the matter of administrative organization was taken up and the following topics were covered: functions of personnel, pattern of organization, general operation, line of responsibility and responsibilities of district administrative personnel.

In making the monthly superintendent's report, Dr. Ted Grenda advised that the 1967-68 budget is now in preparation and should be in the board's hands by March 1, and that the salary committee would be meeting shortly. He also announced that all temporary structures in the district were now complete and occupied. The board endorsed the present public relations program. Dr. Grenda reported that a two-foot contour intervals study of the Lucas Turnpike property by Brinnier and Larios would cost between $1,700 and $2,000, their estimate. Since such a study is prerequisite to actual building, the board concurred in L. E. superintendent's recommendation to accept the Brinnier and Larios figure and have the study made.

The re-renting of the present administration building was authorized; Dr. Grenda is to enter into a rental contract.

The board received the teacher recruitment itinerary, and the date of March 21 for the upcoming bond issue vote was set.

The board of education has scheduled a public hearing on the matter of partial tax exemption for citizens aged 65 and over, at 8 p. m. on Tuesday, Feb. 14 in the senior high school auditorium.

The purpose of the hearing is to acquaint the board with the wishes of the people with respect to passing a resolution permitting eligible district taxpayers to take advantage of the new state law.

Board attorney Thomas Plunket stressed the fact that, in order to be eligible for partial tax exemption, a resident of the district must be 65 years of age or over, and living on a fixed income of $3,000 or less per annum from all sources, including social security. Mr. Plunket also said that everyone attending would have an opportunity to be heard.

Following the hearing, the board will hold its regular February meeting.

Vancouver is the third largest city in Canada.

Expo 67 Blossoms Into Glittering Panoramic Acres

MONTREAL, Canada — Expo 67, the world exhibition opening here April 28 for six months, is 90 per cent completed.

A year ago, Expo 67 consisted largely of 1,000 acres of frozen mud, scattered across two islands and a peninsula jutting into the ice-laden St. Lawrence. The only clues to what lay ahead took the form of lines on blueprints in Washington, Ottawa, Tokyo, London, Moscow, Havana, and other cities throughout the world.

Now the scene is already charged with the glamor and excitement that will greet millions of visitors for 183 days spanning spring, summer and fall.

As 1966 opened, there were 1,800 construction workers on the Expo 67 site, biting into frozen ground with giant excavators or working on stark concrete foundations. By November, there were 9,000 workers on the site.

Construction reached a turning point in September when the exteriors of three national pavilions—the Netherlands, Scandinavia (with five sponsors), and Tunisia—were completed almost simultaneously.

Throughout the autumn, "topping off" ceremonies became commonplace, and the flags of many nations appeared on towers of steel, concrete, plastic, and aluminum. In all, 66 countries will be represented in Expo 67 pavilions.

Construction of the exhibition's own theme buildings, each designed to present a different aspect of the general Expo 67 theme, "Man and His World"—and the buildings sponsored by private exhibitors has kept pace.

Of the 134 building projects undertaken by Expo 67 itself, 78 are completed, 38 more will be finished by the end of February, leaving only 18 to be completed in the final two months before the gates open. However, for the most part these are foundtains, street furniture and other emplacements that cannot be finished until the last minute.

The Expo Express, the exhibition's free mass-transit rail system, is sliding around the site in trial runs, and the elevated Mini-Rail, a secondary transit system, snakes in and out of pavilions, under bridges, and across ponds and lagoons.

The La Ronde amusement area already has taken on an air of gaiety with construction completed on such features as the French Canadian village, Old Fort Edmonton, Pioneerland, the English Pub, the Garden of Stars, and Children's World.

During 1966 many people and even animals . . . in many countries were also preparing for Expo 67. Dolphins were trained in Florida, kangaroos in Australia, and 200 other creatures for the children's zoo.

Chefs in 35 countries drew up menus for Expo 67 restaurants. Curators in the world's leading museums packed 200 paintings to be shipped to Montreal. Hundreds of cameramen traveled the globe shooting film to illustrate the Expo 67 theme. In France, Commandant Yves Cous-trean built underwater vehicles to take visitors through the "Man the Explorer" theme exhibit.

The world's leading companies in the performing arts have accepted invitations to appear in Expo 67's World Festival which critics are already saying will be the greatest collection of talent ever assembled.

Fan Caribbean For Heiress, Mate And Plane Pilot

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Planes are searching between Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands for the only daughter of one of the world's richest women, missing in a small twin-engine plane with her husband and a pilot.

Audrey Bruce Currier, a granddaughter of Andrew W. Mellon, and her husband, Stephen R. Currier, were last heard from Tuesday night 30 minutes after the Piper Anacapa took off from San Juan for a 70-mile hop to St. Thomas, in the Virgin Islands. The pilot was John D. Watson, 52, of Airplane Charters Inc., the owner of the plane.

Daughter of Envoy

More than 20 planes and ships spent all Wednesday fanning over the eastern Caribbean. But they found no trace of the heiress to an estimated $700-million share of the vast Mellon financial empire or her husband, 36, a philanthropist and sponsor of civil rights causes.

Planes kept up the hunt throughout the night and the air-sea search was to resume at daylight.

Mrs. Currier, 33, is the daughter of David K.E. Bruce, U.S. ambassador to Britain, and Ailsa Mellon Bruce, the only daughter of the Pittsburgh tycoon who was U.S. secretary of the treasury from 1921 until 1932.

Currier, 36, is the son of the late Richard Currier, an artist, and Mrs. Edward M. Warburg, wife of a wealthy New York philanthropist.

Ruled Insane

Mom Acquitted In Repetition of Children Deaths

SKOWHEGAN Maine (AP) — A verdict of innocent by reason of insanity has acquitted Constance Fisher of murder charges brought for the bathtub drownings of her second three children in a repetition of the way her first three children died 12 years ago.

Mrs. Fisher, 38, was ruled insane after the first three children died, but was discharged from a mental hospital five years later as cured.

A Superior Court jury of nine men and three women deliberated only 40 minutes Wednesday before returning their verdict.

Justice Albert Knudsen ordered the Fairfield housewife turned over to the Maine commissioner of health and corrections. She was expected to be committed to the Augusta State Hospital, where she had been since the incident last June.

Her commitment this time was a criminal proceeding, rather than a civil matter as it was in 1954.

The Chilean desert has had no known rainfall in this century.

VOLUNTEER TUTOR PROGRAM — The Kingston Study Group Program goes into its second week at Franklin Street AME Zion Church. Students from New Paltz State University College have organized a program of homework help for grade school children Mondays and Wednesdays 6:30 p. m. at the church. Giving pupils an assist with the three R's are tutors Jane Despagni, Linda Embusch, Iris Winter, Sharon Roth, Mrs. Nan Slutzky, chairman of the student group and Donna Riley. Some 30 tutors have volunteered their services, giving the children individual help. Anyone interested in taking advantage of the program may attend the weekly sessions or contact Mrs. Slutzky of Kingston. (Freeman photo by Wagenfohr)

Chest Culminates Year With Awards

one man," Raible stressed. While in this vein, the general chairman heaped high praise on his Chest cabinet members for their dedication.

Tamke, who is scheduled to assume the role as the 1968 general chairman effective with the annual meeting on Feb. 28, presented Raible with the "Charlie Raible Story of 1966" in booklet form. The booklet contained newspaper clippings and photos of the recently concluded drive.

Extolls Raible's Leadership

The IBM official extolled the work of Raible and said in viewing the next campaign "I will need the help of all of you to make next year as successful as this." Raible was accorded a standing ovation.

The year of 1966 was the best Ulster County has ever seen in the matter of Chest drives, Tamke told his audience, with enthusiasm and energy the hallmarks of the concerted drive.

He noted that he had learned much as associate chairman on the 1967 campaign—both about the community and the Community Chest.

The 1968 chairman said he looked up on 1967 as a year of great frustration, a year of a gigantic challenge and a year of magnificent achievement.

List of Awards

General Chairman Raible announced the following plaque awards:

Prescott C. Newell, Cher president; George W. Tamke, associate chairman; S. Sam Fratoni, public relations director; Charles King and Ralph Stewart, industrial division; Mrs. Randolph Siegel, small business division; Robert M. Schnitzer, special groups; Thomas Reynolds, public division; Alex MacDonald, county; George Swirsky, public service; Gunther Newman, Robert D. Stubbs, follow-up;

William Stall, bookkeeping; Harold Van Allen, training; Joseph Benjamin, past Chest president and campaign manager; Edward C. Byman, 1966 general chairman Nat Aaron, who served considerable time as executive director.

Several awards on the humorous side also were presented by Charles Raible to those already mentioned as well as to Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan, Jack Leber, Jack Wyman of New Paltz, Henry Haltermann and G. Herbert DeKay.

Press, Radio Recognized

Raible stressed the tremendous cooperation of both the newspapers and local radio stations throughout the 1967 campaign.

Receiving plaque awards in this and other endeavors were Harry duBois Frey, general manager of The Kingston Daily Freeman; Irwin J. Thomas, Freeman city editor; Attorney Howard C. St. John, Fabian L. Russell, Esq., receiving recognition for their efforts in the radio-videtone were John F. Schuchler, Bob Badger, Larry Swartz, Harry Thayer, Richard Allwork, manager of Kingston Cablevision; Van Darrow, Kingston Savings and Loan; Hal Boyer, Donald MacIsaac, William Hobbs, Larry Adams, Tom Riley, Carl Modjeska and William Schiff Jr.

Others also honored included: G. Herbert DeKay, leadership chairman; Catherine Carlson, attorneys; William Merrill, Jack Leber, community as well as Laughtery Mayor Cornelius Cox and Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, Saugerties Central School District; Jack Wyman, county division and Irene Feltham, follow-up; Bill Skilling, Billy Williams, Richie Allen, Tony Bell and "Big John" Waterous, emcees for the radio-videtone.

Two understanding wives also were pinpointed when Raible presented his wife with a corsage while giving an identical remembrance to S. Sam Fratoni for Mrs. Fratoni.

Raible also had high plaudits for "Bud" Springer, executive director of the Chest and the two office assistants—Lorraine Merch and Peggy Dobbertin.

The Rev. Harold F. Schade, pastor of Hurley Reformed Church, gave the invocation and benediction. Officials, solicitors and guests were welcomed by Chest President Newell.

Copies of the report showing complete receipts as of Jan. 18 were distributed to the assemblage.

Report Sky Spectacle Here

A sharply lighted sky spectacle was reported seen shortly after midnight by city and county residents.

A resident of O'Neil Street reported seeing "suspicious lights in the sky over Port Ewen." He described them as "sharp lines that came to a point."

Others in the county, however, reported seeing a body of light, star shaped, "as big as the moon," and moving at "tremendous speed" with flashing effect.

One said the light was of Laser beam intensity, and when seen in the vicinity of Overlook Mountain, Woodstock, diminished in size as it moved upward.

In Kingston patrol cars were alerted after the report to police headquarters, but their occupants said they "failed to observe any lights as mentioned."

Romney Declares For Open Party

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan Gov. George Romney said today that although Republicans have generally recognized that splinter groups "are not a healthy thing for the party," he is in favor of "an open party."

Romney made the comment at a news conference held while organizers for the United Republicans of America were holding a conference of their own in another part of the Capitol Building.

The chairman of the United Republicans, D. Bruce Evans, said the group is dedicated to working for conservative candidates within the party and indicated that it would support a candidate other than Romney in any bid for the 1968 GOP presidential nomination.

Romney considered a likely candidate for the GOP nomination although he says he has not decided whether to make a White House bid, said plans for a five-state Western tour next month are firm except for a possible additional stop at Mesa, Ariz., on Feb. 23.

The Rev. Harold F. Schade, pastor of Hurley Reformed Church, gave the invocation and benediction. Officials, solicitors and guests were welcomed by Chest President Newell.

Copies of the report showing complete receipts as of Jan. 18 were distributed to the assemblage.

Comment Favors Cooperation to Cure Urban Ills

By WILLIAM S. STEVENS ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A trickle of favorable comment from private industry today reached Republican senators who have proposed linking business and government in an effort to cure the state's urban ills.

The GOP program was outlined Wednesday by Sen. H. Douglas Barclay, of Pulaski, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee

Farmers in BindForecast Higher Milk Prices, but Costs Will Rise

Farmers in Ulster County and across the state can look forward to higher milk prices particularly in the first half of 1967. However, during the year dairy-men will face higher feed, labor and other cost items needed in milk production.

One sobering fact Cooperative Agent Robert D. Guzewich pointed out is that more farmers will continue to leave dairy farming in 1967 even with the better milk prices in prospect.

Cornell Professors L. C. Cunningham and R. P. Story, backed by years of experience in farm economics, foresee higher monthly farm prices for milk through July 1967 over those of 1966. Price gains will be smaller in the latter half of 1967, however, and in some months prices may be less than in 1966.

The increase for the year will average about 15 to 20 cents a hundred, they predicted. "The so-called blended farm price will be in excess of the five dollar figure."

During the past four years the number of milk cows on New York farms and in Ulster County declined. In 1966 the decline was five per cent from 1965. Here in Ulster Guzewich reported that dairy cow numbers are continuing to go down too. In the five years between the Agricultural Census of 1959 and 1964 respectively, cow numbers declined approximately 3½ per cent per year for a total decline of 17 per cent. Milk production per cow continued upward, however, during the same period with dollar return down only 13 per cent. Total dollar return in Ulster County for milk and dairy products according to the Agricultural Census was approximately $4,000,000.

Foreign Clergy May Be Kept Out Of South Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Foreign preachers who use the pulpit to criticize this country's racial policies may find themselves out of a job here.

Legislation is expected to cut to a year the usual three-year temporary residential permit. Even the one-year permit could be withdrawn.

Warnings Issued

Many clergymen, some of them holding foreign passports, have been warned to watch their step. Those who continue to condemn apartheid—race segregation—from the pulpit and in pastoral magazines are the targets.

Growing antagonism between the pro-government Dutch Reformed Church and other religious bodies has influenced the government to take action.

While Prime Minister Balthazar J. Vorster holds the reins of political power, his brother, Dr. J.A. Vorster, an attorney of the Dutch Reformed Church, dominates the religious field. This Church has a predominantly Afrikaans-speaking following estimated at 1.7 million whites in a total white population of about three million. It upholds the government's racial segregation policies.

Dr. Vorster has directed attention to the multiracial Christian Institute of South Africa, a religious body which has often attacked what it considers the lack of Christian principles applied to South Africa's racial problems.

Its members embrace many of the country's religious groups, including some ministers of the Dutch Reformed Church, even though the latter has banned the Christian Institute and warned its Church followers not to associate with it.

Cite Ugly Image

"The Christian Institute is mainly responsible for the ugly image of the Dutch Reformed Church in the outside world," says Dr. Vorster. "During a meeting of the World Council of Churches they conveyed the impression that South Africa was sitting on a powder-keg. Let us tell the world we have rejected them."

A government leader, Ben Schoeman, says: "We are growing tired of political bishops. They use their pulpits to justify their dirty attacks on the government. If ministers of religion want to take part in politics, let them step down on to the political platform."

Commenting on the religious role played by the prime minister's brother and other Afrikaans preachers, Schoeman denied they ever used the pulpit to further political aims.

"Dr. Vorster was attacking communism," he said. "I would welcome other ministers who followed his example."

Pushes Electric Powered Vehicles To Cut Pollution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, D - N.Y., claims that electric-powered vehicles are "a feasible alternative to the internal combustion engine."

Ottinger dramatized that viewpoint Wednesday by driving a small, gray car — that ran without exhaust or noise — among the black limousines and tourist buses on the Capitol grounds.

The Pleasantville Democrat then pointed out and entered the building to introduce a bill in Congress that would authorize the Housing and Urban Development Department to undertake such a development program.

He blamed the internal combustion engine for most of the nation's air pollution. There might be other alternatives besides an electric car, Ottinger said, but the main thrust of scientific thought now is toward the electric car as the answer.

The car he used was an experimental model developed by the Yardney Electric Corp., New York City. Four silver-zinc batteries were installed in a small, four-door French automobile.

The model has a top speed of 55 miles an hour, a range of 77 miles between recharges and a battery life of two years or about 20,000 miles. Ottinger said the batteries could be recharged nightly from house current at a cost of 10 to 15 cents a charge.

Ottinger suggested that all federal agencies be required to use electric cars, thus creating a market that would encourage companies to produce them.

feldt has held this chairmanship in the past.

Chairman Horowitz reports "From the business community, Heart Fund gifts must be viewed as far-sighted responsible answers to a recognized national health crisis. We estimate that in industry the heart and blood vessel diseases account for a loss of more than 72 million man-days of production a year. As income to labor, industry and government, this represents an estimated annual loss of $6.2 billion."

Plan Future Test Of A-Blast Noise Using Simulator

By JOHN GOOLBRICK
Fredericksburg Free Lance-Star

DAHLGREN, Va. (AP) — The serene banks of the Potomac River will quiver soon with the shock of a blast comparable to that of the 20-kiloton atomic bomb that leveled Hiroshima.

But the big boom won't do any damage. It will come from a 2-400-foot-long nuclear blast simulator nearly complete at the U.S. Naval Weapons Laboratory, along the banks of the river some 25 miles east of Fredericksburg, Va.

Navy officials say it's the only one of its type.

Known officially as conical shock tube air blast simulator, the huge tube will test the effects of simulated nuclear blasts on such things as model ships, jet engines, fallout shelters, electronic equipment, tanks, trucks and waterfront structures. It also will evaluate re-entry blast and shock damage to space vehicles at simulated altitudes up to 100,000 feet.

In 1965, the Department of Defense decided such a device would illustrate what would happen to military equipment located on fringe areas of a nuclear blast. It allocated $2.4 million for construction of the shock tube.

Sun Shipbuilding Co. of Chester, Pa., built the big tube that resembles a gigantic ice cream cone and stretches for nearly a half-mile. The tube uses barrels of four 16-inch battleship guns welded end-to-end and joined to steel tubing.

It rests on concrete supports designed to take in stride recoil thrust that will hit 2.5-million pounds at its peak — or enough to flatten all the mules used by both sides in the Civil War.

Testing 8 Satellites As Message Carriers

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Eight new communications satellites spun around the globe today, undergoing tests to qualify them as carriers of secret messages between far-flung U.S. military bases.

The eight were launched from Cape Kennedy Wednesday by an Air Force Titan 3 rocket that snarled them like buckshot into separate orbits 21,000 miles up. They joined seven other identical payloads sent up last June.

The first seven already are speeding messages around eight ground stations. Emphasis is on traffic between Washington and Vietnam.

Col. W. T. Olsson of the Defense Communications Agency said the new batch would be tested several weeks, and hopefully would be operational this summer. They were elected from the rocket at slightly different speeds so they gradually will drift apart to form a necklace around the earth above the equator.

Col. Marion Gibson, satellite program director for the Air Force, said the satellites were working fine. "They're good, healthy satellites," he said.

Child Health Clinic

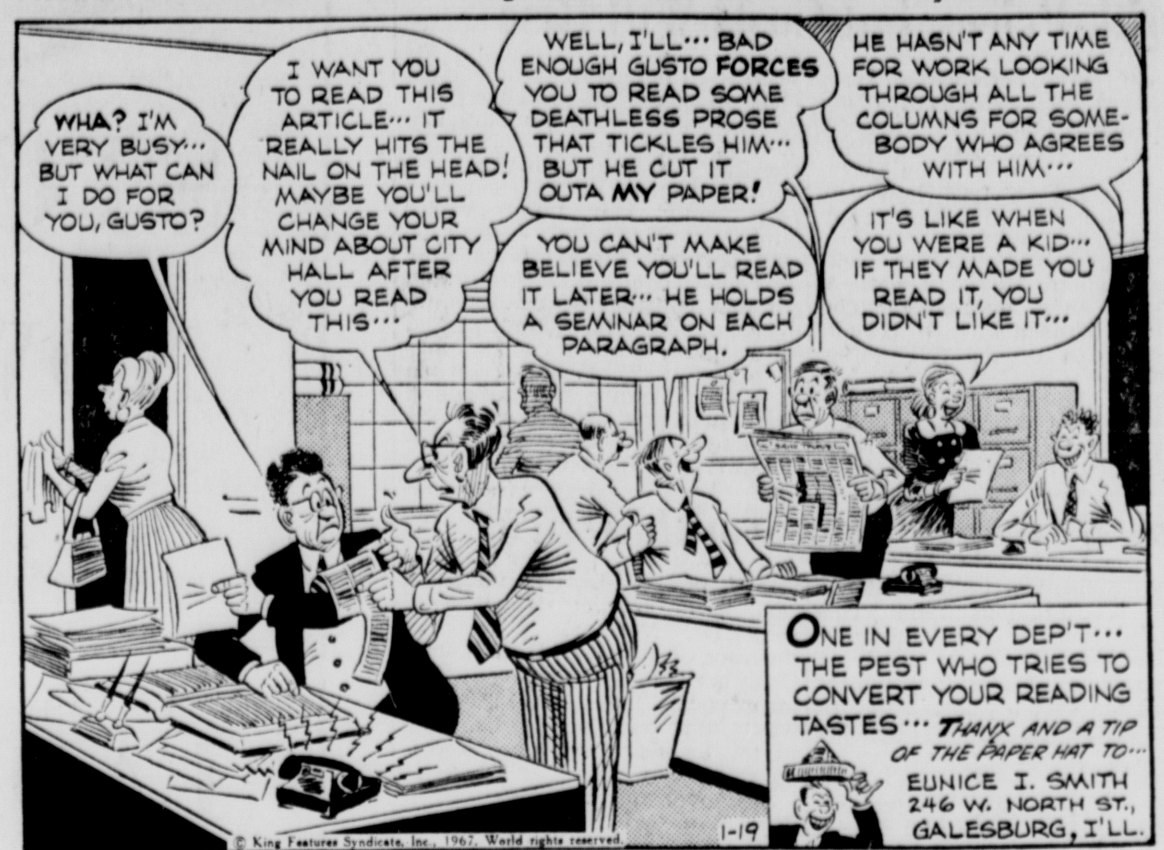

A child health conference, conducted by the Ulster County Health Department, will be held at the Tumor Clinic Building, 400 Broadway, Tuesday, Jan. 24 from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m. These clinics are limited to infant and preschool children for the purpose of improving child health through early recognition of defects, advice regarding nutrition, instruction of parents in understanding of growth and development, handling of minor behavior difficulties and the administering of immunizations for smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough and polio.

$1.3 Million in Will

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Most of a $1.3-million estate has been willed by Samuel Sturman, a Rochester businessman, to an Israeli university.

Sturman directed in his will that the money be used to found a department or chair at Hebrew University to plan a model state in the Middle East "with justice and righteousness as its foundation."

Will Recommend Architect Plan 100-Cell Jail

A recommendation will be made to the Ulster County Board of Supervisors that an architect be hired to come up with a detailed cost estimate and plan for the construction of a new 100-cell jail to house Ulster County prisoners.

That decision was reached at a joint meeting of the Sheriff Committee and the Building Committee Tuesday night.

For some time the State Department of Correction has urged that conditions at the county jail be remedied. In addition to there being insufficient facilities at the present jail to house prisoners, the department has been critical of the lack of facilities to care for juveniles who must be detained at times.

The present jail facilities, frequently so crowded that many prisoners must be housed in the corridors, have no provision for the classification of inmates and the State Department of Correction has made a suggestion that the county make plans for a new modern jail. Some time ago the Department directed that it be informed as to future plans or steps would be taken to condemn and close the jail.

Quality Pickup

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — A storm and continuing cold weather slowed garbage collections recently in St. Joseph. But one customer felt that despite the complaints, the quality of the local garbage pickup service is improving.

He said that a few hours after phoning the local firm about collection difficulties, his garbage was picked up — not by a truck — but by a worker driving a Cadillac.

Acquire Old Newspaper

Mrs. Joan Freeman of Pencil Hill Road, New Paltz, recently donated a 100-year-old newspaper which had the story of Lincoln's assassination on the front page to the New Paltz High School library. The edition of the New York Herald is dated April 16, 1865 and is on display in the library.

Show Slides on France

John P. Masson, New Paltz High School French teacher, recently showed slides of France to a meeting of high school library assistants. Mrs. Ruth Frampton, librarian, made the arrangements.

Inspect Liberty School

Thomas P. Benenati, guidance director at New Paltz High School, is a member of the visiting committee which will evaluate Liberty Central School. The 25 members of the committee will spend three days reviewing the self-evaluation prepared by the Liberty staff. The purpose of the evaluation for the school is to become accredited by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Benenati will serve as chairman of the sub-committee on guidance. He will also be a member of the sub-committee on science and mathematics. In order to be invited to evaluate a school, it is necessary to be a member of the faculty of an accredited institution. New Paltz Central School was accredited in 1963 by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Methodist Services

The Plutarch Methodist Church will meet for worship at 2 p. m. with the sermon by the pastor, the Rev. Roy Allan Hassel. Organist is George Meyer. The annual meeting of the New Paltz Methodist Parish will be held Sunday, Feb. 5 at 3:30 p. m. in the fellowship hall of the church. The Rev. Dr. Wesley Osborne, district superintendent of the Hudson North District, will preside.

All reports and yearly summaries of activities are due at the church by no later than Sunday, Jan. 22. Dr. Osborne will also preach at the three services of worship on that Sunday.

Sees Economy Slowdown

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond says the U.S. economy will slow from a growth rate of 8.5 per cent last year to 6 per cent this year. Edward A. Wayne said "we cannot grow at unsustainable rates and we should not expect it."

Treatment Uncertain

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A state psychiatrist says the prospects for successful treatment of Albert DeSalvo, the self-styled Boston stranger, are not good.

Dr. Samuel Tartakoff, director of legal medicine for the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health, told a Middlesex County Superior Court jury

Tuesday there is no specific treatment for DeSalvo's condition, which he described as a "character disorder."

"He is treatable," Tartakoff said, "in that the effort to treat him might be made, with no assurance as to whether there might be change."

He added: "The prognosis is not good."

Divorce Law, Now Abortion

Catholic Solons Put on Spot by 2 Issues

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — For the second year in a row, delicate issue with strong religious overtones has put the Legislature's two most prominent Roman Catholics uncomfortably on the spot.

Sometime before the 1967 session has ended, Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia and Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges will have to grapple directly with the question of liberalizing the state's law on abortions.

Unenviable Role

Protestant church groups are supporting a drive to broaden the law, while the Roman Catholic Church, which teaches that abortion is tantamount to murder, is bitterly opposing any change.

The fact that Brydges and Travia, both Catholics, usually can wield life or death power over legislation has cast them in unenviable roles — and caused considerable comment on Capitol Hill.

The situation is comparable to one they faced last year, when a drive was mounted to liberalize the state's divorce laws — again, in the face of Catholic Church opposition.

At that time, Travia and Brydges initially adopted a hands-off posture. But it is not in the nature of either man to dodge difficult problems. So they decided to take the matter directly into their own hands.

The result was that they wrote their own divorce law bill, not completely to the satisfaction of the most liberal advocates of reform, but ultimately acceptable to the members of both houses.

While the Catholic Church bowed to the inevitable on the divorce issue, there is no indication it will relent whatsoever.

Mistrial Declared in Rochester Case

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A mistrial was declared early today when a jury said it could not agree on a verdict in the first-degree murder trial of a man accused of hurling a 10-month-old girl off a bridge.

Judge John J. Conway Jr. of Monroe County Court ruled a mistrial after a jury returned twice from deliberation to inform him it could not reach agreement in the case of Andrew Washington Jr. of Rochester.

No new trial date was announced.

Washington, a former janitor, pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to a charge he threw Sharon Mallory from a railroad bridge to the tracks 22 feet below last March 25.

Detectives said Washington was a former boyfriend of the baby's mother, Mattie Mallory, 21, also of Rochester.

Police said the mother told them she fled her apartment after Washington argued with her and threatened her with a knife. She left Sharon with Washington in the apartment, she told police.

When she returned, Sharon and Washington were missing, she said.

The baby's body was found on the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks.

in all-out opposition to rewriting of the abortion law. The theological issue is said to be much more fundamental to Catholic doctrine than dissolution of marriage.

Thus the problem of trying to separate deeply held personal convictions from dispassionate consideration of the legislative question can be a soul-wrenching exercise.

So far, Brydges and Travia have embarked — independently — on the course they entered last year, each taking no direct stand.

Travia has said he has an "open mind" on the subject but has indicated he might be willing to support some changes.

Brydges has been a bit more wary, saying that "this is an area in which we should move very slowly — if at all."

Both also have said, as they did last year, that — in any event — they would approach the question with their responsibilities as lawmakers paramount in mind.

Whether they step more directly into the controversy, as they did in the divorce issue, remains to be seen.

Those who know both men best, however, say it is unlikely they would stand idly by while the houses that they lead come to grips with the problem.

Wilson Decorated Again for Action In Viet Operation

It was learned today that Marine First Lt. Kenneth L. Wilson Jr., of Woodstock, son of Assemblyman and Mrs. Kenneth L. Wilson, has again been decorated for meritorious service in connection with operations against the Communist forces in Vietnam.

Lt. Wilson, who recently returned home after completing more than a year of active duty in Vietnam, was awarded the Bronze Star Medal with the Combat "V" at ceremonies at Camp Lejeune, N. C.

He is currently stationed at the North Carolina camp where he is serving as assistant S-3 officer with the Second Engineer Battalion of the Second Marine Division.

Late last summer, Lt. Wilson had been awarded the South Vietnamese Medal of Gallantry with Silver Stars in connection with his service in the Vietnam War. The decoration was presented to Lt. Wilson, along with other officers and men of the 3rd Marine Division, by the Commanding General of the South Vietnamese First Army Corps at special ceremonies attended by Premier Ky and many top ranking American and South Vietnamese military figures.

In the Presidential Citation accompanying the Bronze Star, the Commanding General of the Marine Corps, Lt. General V. H. Krulak, said Lt. Wilson, who was serving as a platoon leader, and then as company commander, led his men with distinction in such major combat operations as "Double Eagle," "Orange," "Red Shapper," "Georgia," "Liberty," and "Long Lance," and as the officer in charge of the specially trained tunnel search and demolition teams. The citation went on to say that Lt. Wilson personally led, or directed numerous tunnel operations which led to the destruction of many underground enemy emplacements, some of which were in the face of determined enemy resistance. It was also noted in the Presidential Citation that Lt. Wilson personally supervised many mine sweeping operations in Vietnam under the threat of constant enemy ambush and harassing fire, and that he played a major role in the construction of the "Liberty Road" from DeNang to Am-Hoa, a vital military road which was constructed despite enemy mine activity, frequent sniper fire and enemy ambushes. The Citation in connection with the awarding of the Bronze Star ended with the statement that "Lt. Wilson's exemplary leadership, courage, and dedication to duty were in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Naval Service."

Gives NHRR Value

NEW YORK (AP) — A leader of a group of investors seeking to take over the New Haven Railroad says it is worth at least $500 million—which is 3½ times the estimated price at which the line's bankruptcy trustees hope to sell it.

The $500 million estimate was made Wednesday by R. Marshall Barnes, a partner in Howe, Barnes & Co. a Chicago investment and brokerage firm. Barnes was interviewed during a recess in the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) hearings being held here on the New Haven's future.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

There are 500 to 600 active volcanoes in the world, according to The World Almanac. Most are located in a circle around the Pacific called the "ring of fire." Many are under the sea and occasionally erupt to form new islands. An "active" volcano is defined as one that has erupted at least once during recorded history.

Utica Man Killed

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—Salvatore LaGalbo, 53, of Utica, was killed Wednesday and a fellow fork-lift operator was injured when they fell 65 feet from the top floor of an apartment building under construction.

Joseph Domenico, 42, of Utica, remained in critical condition today in Faxon Hospital with injuries suffered in the fall from the sixth floor, where both were stacking bricks.

Highway Safety Problem, Topic At Rotary Club

Views on highway safety and the effect it has on all of us were expressed in an interesting and informative talk by William J. Wright, district manager of American Motors Sales Corporation automotive division, before the Kingston Rotary Club Wednesday.

Highlighting some aspects of the traffic safety problem as seen today, the speaker said that most of us who grew up with the automobile are aware of the way personal mobility we enjoy, the freedom to choose where we live and work, the easy access of distant recreation areas all came with the automobile. It's difficult to remember a way of life not so totally dependent on the availability of personal transportation.

Also Changes Environment

However, the growing intensity of car use, the rising car population, the changing patterns of travel all have combined to change the environment in which the automobile must function.

There are more and more of us using the highways increasing the accident exposure factor each year. Our motor vehicle population is more than 90 million right now. That's an increase of 30 per cent in the last 10 years. The same rate of interest for the next 10 years would put 117 million cars on the road by 1975.

Annual motor vehicle travel has risen 50 per cent in the past decade to almost 900 billion miles. The U. S. Bureau of Public Roads predicts a 33 per cent increase in highway travel in the next 10 years, rising to 1.2 trillion miles a year. Licensed drivers now total nearly 100 million and their number is growing.

The situation can be summed up by a simple equation: More motorists in more cars driving more miles each year equals a higher accident exposure rate.

Obviously, how well we can continue to enjoy the benefits of car ownership depend on how well our society adjusts to the increased concentration of motor vehicles and how we regulate our driving habits.

Four Key Factors

We believe four factors must be considered in today's overall traffic problem—the driver, the highway, the law and the vehicle. Following a film showing the inter-relationship of these factors as they concern the total highway safety problem, the speaker reviewed briefly the 65-year history of the American Motors and its contributions in making cars safer and more reliable.

Business Mirror Reflections

Expresses Visions of State and Businesses in Complex

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — With a forecast of events that was incisive, witty and debatable, John Kenneth Galbraith must have provoked defiant snorts in businessmen's clubs throughout the nation.

Speaking in London, the Harvard economist, former ambassador to India and adviser to President John F. Kennedy, declared recently that many large corporations some day may blend into a larger administrative complex with the state. What?

Will Disappear
"In time the line between the two will disappear," he said. "Men will look back in amazement at the pretense that once caused people to refer to General Electric or Du Pont or Vickers as private business." He spoke about that ancient source of friction — the changing relationship between government and business. This is an age of development in that relationship.

The fact is that business and government increasingly find themselves in this disputed territory and, judged by some standards, often crossing the border into each other's lands.

Job Growing
The size of the job each must handle is growing. When an activist government is deeply involved in regulation of railroads, automobiles, drugs and other products friction is inevitable.

The government also is committed to marketplace activities of raising or lowering prices and wages to, in its view, stabilize the economy. This is now a nebulous area defined more by guidelines than by laws.

Political considerations aside, big government is as much a fact of the 20th Century as is big business. At least 20 per cent of the Gross National Product is in federal, state and local government activities.

20 Million Involved
Perhaps 20 million people are involved with government jobs, directly as in the military or indirectly through government contracts and other activities. The federal government is the biggest employer. It is the major customer, too.

Some of the nation's largest companies have 50 to 75 per cent or even more of their business with the federal government. Mutually involved in and some business find themselves also mutually dependent.

Evidence of this changing relationship is obvious. Fortune Magazine estimates 300 companies maintain permanent, full-time liaison offices in Washington. Washington lawyers are employed for their expertise not just in corporate affairs but in the art of political persuasion and in knowledge of military men find corporate jobs easy.

Massive Fortress
The massive mountaintop fortress, La Citadelle, on the northern coast of Haiti, required the labor of 200,000 men and 123 years to build.

ADAM T. REGELSKI

William Rosenberg, president of Big V Supermarkets, Florida, N. Y., has announced the promotion of Adam T. Regelski to the new post of Vice President of Supermarket Field Operations.

He will direct a management staff of field supervisors and filed operations of the firm, which employs over 750 persons in Shop-Rite supermarkets in Middletown, Florida, Vails Gate, Peekskill, Kingston, Port Ewen, Poughkeepsie and Albany.

A native of Florida, Regelski resides with his wife, Barbara, in that community. He has been employed by the firm for the past 22 years.

Los Angeles, Calif., is the largest U.S. city in area.

Cause Sought Of Glen Falls Blaze Wednesday

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Fire officials sought today the cause of a fire Wednesday night that damaged extensively a three-story office and business building.

More than 100 volunteer firemen from neighboring communities and 32 off-duty firemen from the city department aided firefighters in battling the flames for two hours in near-zero temperatures.

Firemen said the cold hampered their effort and many reported they slipped and fell while working to contain the fire.

No one was seriously injured. There was no damage estimate.

A fire official said he believed the fire broke out on the second or third floor of the brick building on the corner of Glen and Ridge streets, just behind police headquarters in this northern Hudson Valley city.

It was not known immediately who owned the building, which housed 13 business and several offices. The streets surrounding the area were choked with ice that had formed from water that was used to fight the fire. City crews poured salt on the streets to break up the ice.

Hope Provides Pleasant Albeit Late Yule Gift

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Hope's annual report to the folks at home on his Christmas visit to our fighting men abroad is the only television program in which the audience is more important than the entertainers.

Wednesday night on NBC, the 90-minute special, a pleasant if belated Christmas present, consisted as usual of filmed bits and pieces from shows Hope and his troupe gave for American soldiers sailors and Marines in Vietnam, Thailand and other outposts.

Family There Too

Hope was in the center of things, swining a golf club, wearing an assortment of funny hats and making local jokes about the mud, the brass and the enemy. Joey Heatherton drew whistles with her dancing. Vic Damone sang. Phyllis Diller made jokes. This year, Dolores Hope, the star's wife, sang one song and his daughter, Nora, danced a few steps.

The highlights were the camera shots of acres and acres of American soldiers around outdoor stages or clustered like bees on the deck of a carrier. Occasionally, the cameras moved in for a closeup and it was these shots, showing men laughing and clapping that gave the program its special appeal.

One of the toughest assignments in television is to follow Hope's Christmas show. Dom DeLuise, a comedian last seen regularly on "The Entertainers," drew that difficult chore Wednesday night. He starred in a half-hour variety special with the difficult title of "The Bar-rump Bump Show."

Word was leaked around that the program was a pilot for a DeLuise series. Just a year ago, Roger Miller filled the same post-Hope half hour, and critical reception was so good that he was rewarded with his own series last September.

Same Luck Doubtful
It is doubtful that DeLuise will have the same kind of luck. He is a round-faced young man who works awfully hard at being funny. Sometimes he seems to suffer from the same difficulty that afflicted Sid Caesar — never knowing when to quit. He obviously has talent, but somebody has to harness and control it.

NBC plans to provide live TV coverage of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearings starting Monday at 10 a.m. when Secretary of State Dean Rusk will testify. CBS will show highlights of the testimony Monday night, 10:30-11.

Lloyd Thaxton, who presided over one of those writhing teenage dance shows, will be host on a daytime game show starting Feb. 6.

"The Smothers Brothers Show" will premiere on CBS Feb. 5 with Jim Nabors, Jill St. John and Ed Sullivan as guest stars. Nabors and Miss St. John will sing. Sullivan will flip through a family photograph album.

Great Players on U. S. Team

By Oswald and James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The team to represent America in the 1967 World's Championship consists of Alvin Roth, Bill Root and Edgar Kaplan of New York, Norman Kay of Philadelphia and Eric Murray and Sammy Kehela of Toronto.

Murray and Kehela were members of the 1966 team and Roth and Kay have also represented America in previous years.

This team was selected after ten days of trials which constitute the toughest test of bridge ever. The American Contract Bridge League has prepared a book showing the final hands of the trials and it is well-worth reading by anyone who is interested in seeing how ten top pairs struggled against one another.

Hand one of the first match started everyone in the same direction. With East and West passing through, each South player got to four hearts against a ten of clubs opening.

At trick two each South led a low diamond from dummy and East rose with his king. At two tables East proceeded to lead the king of Spades. After this play the best declarer could do was to make his contract.

At two of the five tables East shifted to a trump. South rose with his ace, ruffed a club in dummy, returned to his hand with a low diamond to the queen, led out his king and queen of trumps, entered dummy with the ace of spades and discarded his

Runs Helicopter Upside Down Test

By RALPH DIGHTON

AP Science Writer

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) —

Sam Mason was hanging by his seat belt for a while Wednesday.

For him, that's not too unusual. Although white-haired at 49 and a grandfather, Mason is a test pilot.

Flying Upside Down

What was unusual, even for Mason, was that he was in a helicopter at the time flying upside down, and helicopters are not supposed to fly that way.

Mason's feat was performed before several hundred veteran helicopter pilots here for the annual convention of the Helicopter Association of America.

Among the 20-odd rotor craft on exhibit at the Palm Springs airport, Mason's was unique. Its four blades had no engines.

Most helicopter blades are hinged so they can be swung up or down while whirling to point the rudderless craft in a certain direction without tilting the cabin, suspended beneath them like a pendulum.

The blades of Mason's helicopter were fixed rigidly to the central rotating shaft. This meant that when he tilted the blades he tilted his cabin too. But it also meant that he could roll, loon and fly upside down.

Danger of Damage

If a conventional helicopter were flown upside down there would be danger of damaging the engine. The blades might fold and the wingless craft would fall like a rock. But Mason's blades couldn't fold — they had no hinges.

A spokesman for Lockheed California Co., for which Mason works and which built the rigid-rotor helicopter, said the hingeless concept means the craft could outmaneuver a fighter plane in a dogfight.

Mason set out to prove it. For 15 minutes he performed loops, rolls, rotor-overs (these would be wing-overs in an airplane — a maneuver which stops just short of a full roll), and sundry aerobatics which would leave a pilot dizzy. And all at a height of 500 to 1,500 feet.

To Test Insanity Law In DeSalvo's Appeal

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Attorney F. Lee Bailey, charging that "Massachusetts just burned another witch," says he'll challenge the state's criminal insanity law in appealing the assault conviction of Albert DeSalvo, the man who claims to be the Boston strangler.

DeSalvo, 35, was sentenced Wednesday night to 10-years-plus-life after an all-male jury convicted the mental patient on charges of robbery and attacking four women in their suburban Boston homes in 1964.

None Connected
None of the charges was connected with the series of killings attributed to the strangler.

"It is the fault of no one but the law," Bailey told newsmen as he left Middlesex County Superior Court.

The attorney, who successfully defended Dr. Samuel Sheppard of Cleveland, Ohio, in his second murder trial, and Dr. Carl Connelley in his New Jersey murder trial, said he did not regard the verdict in the DeSalvo case as a defeat.

"I haven't lost it yet," he said, citing his plans for an appeal to the Massachusetts Supreme Court.

Bailey had asked for verdicts of not guilty by reason of insanity and had not contested the charges against DeSalvo.

Bailey challenged the definition of insanity in the Massachusetts penal code several times during the seven-day trial.

He had questioned psychiatric witnesses repeatedly on the subject, including their views on the language of a proposed model definition of criminal insanity as proposed by the American Law Institute.

In his final argument to the jury, Bailey referred to the witch trials which took place in Massachusetts in the 17th century, comparing a guilty verdict against DeSalvo with the ignorance of mental illness which he said was shown in the witchcraft era.

The jury deliberated three hours and 45 minutes before returning its verdict on the 10 indictments, which included armed robbery, assault and battery, breaking and entering and sex offenses.

DeSalvo was sentenced to life imprisonment for armed robbery, with the sentence to begin after a 10-year sentence and other shorter concurrent terms for the other offenses.

Judge Cornelius J. Moynihan stayed the sentences pending the appeal and ordered DeSalvo returned to the Massachusetts State Hospital at Bridgewater, where he has been confined for most of the past 26 months.

Testimony was given during the trial that DeSalvo had insisted to psychiatrists he killed 13 women in eastern Massachusetts, 11 of them by strangling, between June 1962 and January 1964.

Executive of UN Will Speak Here At Woman's Club

CLARK EICHELBERGER

The man who will come to Saugerties on Thursday, Jan. 26, at 8:15 p. m., to speak to the Woman's Club at Dutch Arms Chapel of Reformed Church here, is now a vice-president of United Nations Association of the United States of America.

He is Clark M. Eichelberger, who previously held the position of executive director of the American Association for the UN, which merged in 1964 with the U. S. Committee for the UN to form the United Nations Association.

Eichelberger, who was born in Illinois and attended Northwestern University and the University of Chicago, is also chairman of the Commission to Study the Organization of Peace, the research arm of the UNA. He served in the U. S. Army with the AEF during World War I. He has lectured on national and international affairs under the Radcliffe Chautauqua System; assumed directorship of the Midwest office of the League of Nations Association in 1929, becoming national director in 1934 and continuing in that office when the LNA became the AAUN in 1945.

With Secretariat
Eichelberger held a temporary appointment as a consultant to the League of Nations Secretariat in 1938. He was director and then president of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies (1941). He also served as a consultant to the Department of State and was a member of a five-man committee to prepare the first United States working draft of the United Nations Charter. He was a consultant to the U. S. Delegation to the San Francisco Conference in 1945 which wrote the UN Charter.

For his efforts in the cause of peace, Eichelberger was decorated with the Chevalier Legion of Honor by France in 1934. He received an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from Kalamazoo College, Mich., in 1964.

Eichelberger is the author of The United Nations Charter: What Was Done at San Francisco; UN: The First Ten Years; UN: The First Fifteen Years and, just published, UN: The First Twenty Years.

The second book in the series was translated into three languages — French, Spanish and Arabic. In addition, Eichelberger writes a column for the Association publication VISTA. He has contributed articles to other publications explaining how the oceans' enormous riches can contribute to peace and help alleviate world poverty—if they are placed under UN administration now. He has also had a radio program with the National Broadcasting Company.

UN Observer

Eichelberger has been an observer at many Assembly and Council meetings of the League of Nations and the United Nations and lectures extensively.

Mrs. David Groff, the club's president, cordially invites all men and women of Saugerties to hear this very interesting lecturer; says she feels this talk about the UN will be especially interesting to everyone.

Eichelberger's appearance was arranged by the International Affairs Department and he will be presented by Mrs. Harry Hoffman, chairman, on Jan. 26 in the Dutch Arms Chapel.

Cashara's Donate Classics to UCCC In Name of Lake

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Cashara, 43 Stephan Street, have donated a 50 edition set of the Harvard Classics to Ulster County Community College in the name of Dr. Dale B. Lake, who has resigned as college president.

Dr. Lake resigned to become president of Kalamazoo Valley Community College in Michigan. He did so, he said, because he was concerned because actions and events beyond the control of the college trustees "were frustrating and thwarting their efforts and rendering that board virtually ineffective, particularly with regard to the development of vitally needed permanent facilities."

One of Mr. and Mrs. Cashara's sons, John Cashara, now is a student at Ulster County Community College.

"Our son has an awful lot of Dr. Lake and feels he's been doing a wonderful job," Mrs. Cashara said. "It's a shame the college has to lose a fine man like that."

Mrs. Cashara said Dr. Lake, in addition to his many duties in running the college, also took time to participate in local community activities.

Dr. Lake showed himself to be a devoted man concerning the education of our young people," Mrs. Cashara said, "and losing him is going to be a distinct loss to the college and the community."

Mrs. Cashara said she and her husband felt that giving the Harvard Classics to the College's Macdonald DeWitt Library was a fitting way to honor Dr. Lake for his accomplishments toward providing a higher education for the youth of Ulster County. Gordon L. Kidd, director of library services at the college, said the college is very pleased to receive this valuable addition

Local Mental Health Officials Hear Rocky

Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller outlined his plans for mental health treatment at the fourth annual meeting of the Mental Health Legislative Assembly of New York State Assembly for Mental Health in Albany Wednesday. Representing Ulster County were Mrs. Diana M. Geiger, executive secretary of the local association, and Charles L. McKendrick, superintendent of the State Correctional School at Napanoch.

Gov. Rockefeller called for an increase of $38,600,000 in mental health appropriations in the coming year. The money will provide funds for hiring an additional 4,500 persons to care for the mentally ill.

He also outlined plans for a Narcotic Addiction Control Commission with a proposed budget of $45,860,000 for fiscal 1967-68.

Crickets a Treat For America's Deadliest GI's

By JERRY CURRY

GRANITE CITY, Ill. (AP)—Probably the deadliest soldiers in the U.S. Army are the seven members of the black widow brigade.

But the brigade will see only stateside action because its members—real female black widow spiders—are too valuable to trust outside individual glass jars.

"The spider spins a fine tough single strand web which we use in various sighting instruments," said Donn Kinney, the civilian chief of the Topographical-Electronics Division at the Granite City Army Depot.

Each spider can produce up to 160 feet of web in a matter of seconds depending on her mood. The market price for the strands is $25 per 100 feet.

The black widow, which devours her husband early in marriage secretes one of the most toxic poisons known when it bites. There is immediate, acute pain at the point of the bite. The pain spreads quickly and the poison can cause death.

Treatment for a black widow's bite includes strong sedatives and heart stimulation with strychnine.

"Actually they're really not too hard to handle," said Kinney. "They're timid creatures and none of the men who work with the spiders has ever been bitten."

Like almost everything else, the brigade has its star, named "Ruthie." She's a cute little thing, said Kinney.

One man who helps the "timid creatures" spin their webs for the U.S. defense effort is Elwyn Miller, a civilian. He commented: "I've never worried about them, but I am careful."

To make the silky strands, which are one-fifth thousandth of an inch thick, the spider is removed from its glass jar by allowing it to climb on a piece of wood.

Then the black widow drops from the stick to the floor, spinning her web behind her. The web is wound around a rack as the spider works.

The black widows live about six months. New recruits are trapped around the Army post.

Woodstock News

PANEL PARTICIPANTS—As the Woodstock Chamber of Commerce spearheaded renewed interest in a Youth Center and youth program locally at its meeting at Deane's last week, part of the panel posed for Freeman photographer, Milt Waggoner. On hand to discuss local recreation, past and future, were (l-r) Richard Langham, C of C president, who served as moderator; Leon Van Heusen, of the Kingston YMCA; Ted Goddard, member of the Woodstock Recreation Committee; and Mrs. Phyllis Wittner, of the local League of Women Voters.

Foresee Local Youth Center As Non-Profit Group; Board Would Ask Little of Town

This year, more people than ever are interested in seeing a Youth Center in Woodstock. Not that Woodstock hasn't always had the Youth Center spirit.

Sometimes, it has seemed to us as we have reported on meeting after meeting across the fading years—all aimed at getting just such a program started here—that people must surely have been fighting for a recreation building locally since pre-Civil War days.

But now, thanks to a meeting sponsored last week by the Chamber of Commerce, new fuel has been added to the fire, probably because of the youthful persuasiveness of two guest speakers from Hudson's Blue Anchor Youth Club. If Hudson can do it—and did it 21 years ago—the feeling now seems to run so can Woodstock, which has just as much community pride.

In any event, so easy and so rewarding did Blue Anchor's R. Knack and W. Dunn make the whole thing seem that a group of Woodstockers were moving heaven and earth this week to bring about the beginnings of a youth center, the first step being the formation of a Board of Directors.

Much Enthusiasm

Their enthusiasm surprised no one since such enthusiasm has been evidenced many times before. What was surprising was that this time it just might take—the new group looks for all the world like it means business. And, for the first time, those involved are not basing their hopes entirely on support from the Town Board. They are perfectly willing to go it alone as a non-profit organization, interested in buying or leasing a building.

Another surprise stemming from the C of C meeting was an offer from Joseph Holdridge, owner of Swim-O-Links in Bearsville, to sell his swimming pool, miniature golf links and snack bar property to either a private group interested in teenage recreation or to the Town of Woodstock.

While the idea was an enticing one, few believed that a private group such as the one envisioned would ever be able to raise the money needed to purchase and maintain such an establishment or that the economy-minded Town Board would even consider the idea at all.

Election Issue

In paving the way for last week's panel discussion, Chamber of Commerce president Richard Longham noted that a Youth Center and program had been a hot issue for some time locally; lamented the fact that this was usually true only around election time, when it produced more heat than light. He advocated starting from the beginning, looking at the project from a fresh angle, taking it out of the political arena and approaching the problem constructively as to what type program local teenagers want and the community would enthusiastically support. "Is the first need a building or a program?" he asked.

The panel which undertook the job of exploring information and ideas on a youth program included Fred Strassberg and Ted Goddard of the Woodstock Recreation Committee, Phyllis Wittner of Woodstock League of Women Voters, Leon Van Heusen, director of youth activities at Kingston YMCA, and R. Knack and W. Dunn of Hudson's Blue Anchor Youth Club, one of the most successful organizations of its type in the state.

Speaking first, Goddard charged the recreation in Woodstock has not kept pace with the growth of the town. He said the once popular and well-organized program here for younger children faces problems today because of the lack of adequate facilities and that the town has no program at all for teenagers. He noted that the Town Board appointed Recreation Committee has advocated a permanent youth center building for years to no avail. The committee still recommends construction of a multi-purpose building for summer and winter use as a youth center and meeting place for arts and crafts classes for younger children, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, etc. Also needed: a larger swimming pool and general improvements at the Andy Lee Memorial Field, Rock City Road.

According to Goddard, the biggest stumbling block has always been the fact that a lot of money was needed for such projects—money which would mean a substantial increase in the town budget. The Town Board, he said, facing other problems with taxpayers, has always seemed to feel that recreation must be held within reason. The question of the hour now seems to be what to strive for at what cost.

Waiting Six Years

Strassberg noted that local teenagers have now been waiting for six years for the building they felt they had been promised by the town. To help with this cost, he said, teenagers have raised more than $5,000 themselves. He maintained that countless meetings over these years have proved nothing since the building is still needed and a program cannot evolve without a building. As he sees it, all Woodstock teenagers ask is a little more than the nothing they now have.

Mrs. Wittner referred to the LWV study of recreation for the young of Woodstock in 1961-62 which led to the idea of a youth center, an idea taken over by the town and supported by the League. In 1964, she said, when the League felt things were not going well because of the lack of a building and program, LWV members took up the study, again.

Through interviews with adults and students of Ontario Central Schools, the League became convinced that teenagers were most interested in skiing, swimming, basketball, roller skating, ice skating and parties—many of which a youth center could not provide. It was noted that the League had received only a 30 per cent return on questionnaires submitted to students. Feeling strongly that the need was for a good director rather than a building, the LWV then concentrated on improving facilities for arts and crafts for six to 12-year-olds at the recreation field and forgot the teenagers since the present town budget was inadequate to cover both. Members felt the local school and parish halls should be used for teen centers before any new building was contemplated.

Discusses YMCA

The YMCA's Van Heusen discussed the possibility of a branch of his organization for Woodstock to give the people themselves the opportunity of doing what government would not. He noted that the "Y" is an organization for adults of both sexes, girls of all ages and families doing things together, as well as a group for boys under 18-years-old. He felt Woodstockers might well consider a "Y" program here—one that would be for the people, by the people and for the improvement of Woodstock. Such a project would put a program first with the building to come later—but the building would come, he felt—be forced upon the people from within. Ignoring governmental help, the people would establish their own program to be paid for by them.

Blue Anchor Club past president Richard Knack and director W. Dunn discussed their unique teenager club, one of the few of its type in the world. Started by only 15 people in 1945 with no money, it has grown through push and good spirit and through vision in spite of a lack of finances. Beginning with the purchase of a private dwelling in the heart of the city by an older patron, who died within days, an adult advisory board of 12 persons took over the financing. The director gave up his job to devote all his time to the club and money to pay off the mortgage was raised through card parties, civic drives, food sales and outright donations. The building was old and dilapidated and needed many improvements. Not only were they made but, later, an $11,000 addition was built through a building campaign conducted to raise costs. Today, the building is paid off; is a roaring success although it mostly offers such simple attractions as ping pong, dancing to a juke box and tables for conversation.

Experience has shown that "chinning with their contemporaries" is all teenagers really hope for, although the Blue Anchor also provides a reading, smoking and TV room, hobby clubs and games, and outdoor basketball backboards. Much of the success of the club is due to the fact that a full-time, part-time director lives in an upstairs apartment.

With such proof that it can and has been done, many of the 60 who attended the Chamber of Commerce meeting intend to see that it is done here.

Little enthusiasm was shown for the YWCA idea but the Blue Anchor approach definitely appealed. For once, nobody is considering the help of the town or its taxes and for that very reason, the project just might click this time around.

Italian Cowboy To Play Lancelot In Camelot Movie

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The role of Sir Lancelot in Warner Brothers' 12-million "Camelot" has fallen to an Italian cowboy named Franco Nero.

Not to be confused with Sergio Franchi or Peter Nero, the new Lancelot is a muscular, 25-year-old native of Parma who first found fame as a Western hero named Diano, not to be confused with Ringo.

Nero isn't the least confused. He is a determined young man who knows what he wants and is getting it. He realized at an early age that acting was for him, and he appeared in plays during his schooling, later drew small roles in films.

His big break came when the new wave of European-made Westerns struck Italy. Nero's physique suited him for the role of a gunslinger, and he was cast in the title role of "Diano."

"At first I didn't think I would do it," he recalls. "I considered myself a serious actor, and the thought of playing a cowboy repulsed me. But a friend advised me: 'You are an actor; you should be able to play any role. Do it as a joke.'"

"And so I did. I played the role as satire, but with serious undertones. Everything was done to avoid clichés."

"Diano" was a hit, and Nero was sought for other Westerns. He played in two more, then refused all others lest he become known as a Roman Randolph Scott.

Meanwhile Joshua Logan was seeking leads for "Camelot." While in Europe he consulted John Huston for suggestions. Said Huston: "It's easy. Cast Richard Harris as King Arthur and Franco Nero as Lancelot." Harris and Nero had appeared for Huston in "The Bible" a Cain and Abel.

Logan was impressed with Nero after meeting him in London, and the Italian made an undercover mission to Hollywood for a test.

A day before he was going to sign for another Italian film, Nero was notified he was wanted for "Camelot." He has since undergone coaching in English and manages his lines with facility.

BOSTON (AP) — The mayors of Boston have been getting $20,000 a year salary since 1925 and the present mayor thinks it's about time they got a raise.

Mayor John F. Collins said a number of city officials now receive up to 50 per cent more than the mayor. He suggested the mayor's salary be increased to $40,000, effective in 1968.

Doing The Right Thing

BY ELIZABETH L. POST of the Emily Post Institute
RETARDATION AND STUPIDITY NOT TO BE COMPARED

Dear Mrs. Post: After many months of enjoying your column, today I think I have read it for the last time.

I am referring to the letter about the girl who was rude when taken by her fiancé to his friend's home for dinner. You said that the girl must be mentally retarded or stupid. How could you be so cruel as to compare a mentally retarded person to a stupid person? That was such a heartless comparison. Your remark is something that is expected from someone who cannot comprehend the sadness that goes with being mentally retarded.

Mrs. Boehler: I am sorry that I offended you in speaking of retardation and stupidity in one sentence. My intention was certainly not to compare them—I was simply looking for a reason for the actions of the young lady. Although many retarded children are well behaved and sweet, others are irresponsible and difficult, and her behavior fitted that description.

Of course there can be no comparison—the retarded child is not fully responsible for his actions and cannot be blamed for them. However, a stupid child cannot help his stupidity either, and is also an object of compassion. Therefore, I do not feel that my comment was either insulting or derogatory. Whatever the reason, the girl's behavior as described in the letter showed her as immature and ill-mannered, and very possibly was due to lack of education and a good upbringing.

Tips in Beauty Parlors

Dear Mrs. Post: When you make an appointment with a beauty shop with one particular operator who is usually busy, and she asks another operator to wash your hair for her, is it necessary to tip both of them even though you only asked for one? Yvonne

Dear Yvonne: You are "on the spot" when this happens, because although you asked for one, it is hardly fair to ask the other to perform her services without receiving a tip. Yes, you should tip both—split the amount you would have tipped your regular operator, or add an additional twenty-five cents for the one who shampoos you.

Who do you tip? When and how much? You will find the answer to these questions in Elizabeth L. Post's new, sixteen page booklet "The Etiquette of Tipping." To get a copy, send twenty-five cents in coin to cover booklet and shipping expenses, to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this paper.

Dear Abby . . .

Resting Won't Help Melt Away Pounds

Abigail Van Buren

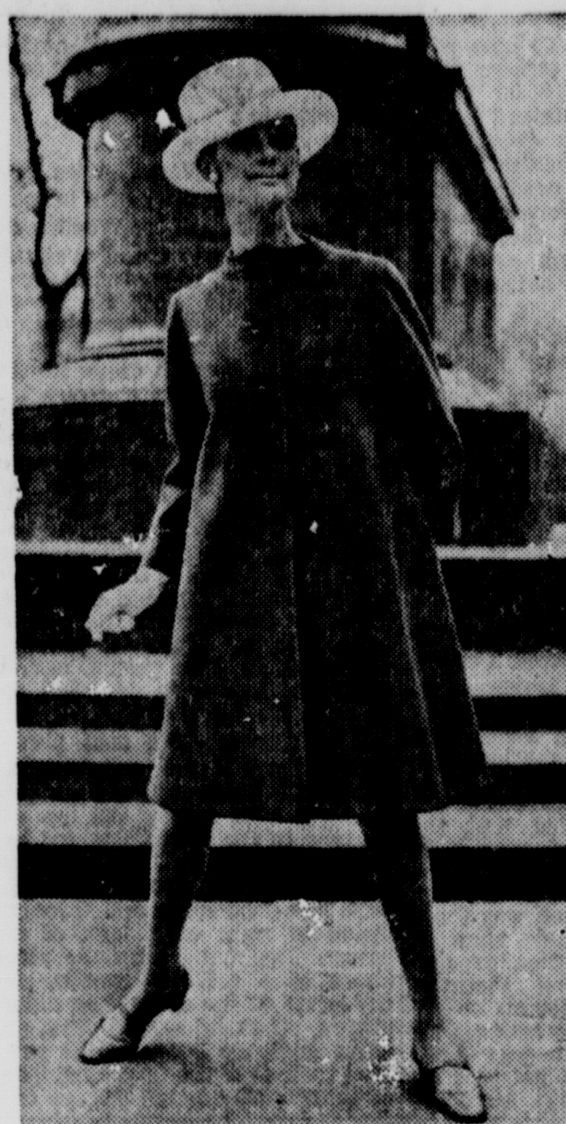

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 and I am ready to run away from home. My problem is my mother. To begin with I am overweight, which I know I am, but my mother doesn't let me forget it for a minute. I've been on several diets but none of them has been any good for me. Well, my mother watches every bite I put into my mouth. I am not on a diet now because the doctor told my mother not to throw out any more money on pills and office calls for me because I wasn't "mature" enough to stay on a diet.

Well, when I get good and ready to go on a diet, I will, but right now I am resting, so will you please print this so my mother may see it and maybe she'll let me enjoy a meal once. Thank you.

DEAR RESTING: All right, I printed your letter for your mother to see. Now, a word to you: Don't "rest" too long because the more weight you pile on while you're "resting," the more difficult it will be to lose. Your mother is trying to spare you misery later on, so shape up.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is very generous about money matters, but he thinks everything I buy for the house, large or small, should have his approval. He wants to be consulted about paint color, drapery fabric, every little inexpensive light fixture, ash tray, etc. He says he lives here, too, and should have his say about the furnishings.

He never consults me about the thousands of dollars worth of sports equipment he buys. Or his office furnishings, or even his car. He says these things concern only him. It is not a matter of taste, because he admits that mine is better.

Graceful fullness flows from an Empire yoke (left) controlled by the buttons. The elegant details in this Spring 1967 coat by Monarch are a low standing collar and seaming. Spring coat (right) with Paris-inspired "soldat" influence is in sherbet tones of wool gabardine by Zelinka Matlick. Club collar, epaulettes and brass buttons are fashion bugle calls.

Snug Tops, Swinging Hems for Coats

By HELEN HENNESSY
Women's Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The "lift" is the newest thing in coats now being shown in the New York fashion collections for Spring 1967. And the raised lines give the spirits as well as the fashions a lift. The look is young and vibrant without any kookiness.

Suave, controlled shaming is part of the change. Coats flow from narrowed, set-in shoulders and bustline. Sometimes the flare is barely there but it is evident enough to stamp the silhouette as new for spring.

No one talks about hemlines because in the main they still hover around the knee-top.

There are tent coats that have their fling only at the back. Others swing wide all around from a narrow top. And there are baby tents, seamed in the round for just a slight flare.

If the tent shape has no appeal for you you can still be part of the spring fashion story in a slim cardigan coat, a shirt coat (shaped like a long shirt with buttoned cuffs) or a new coat shape inspired by the greatcoat worn by men in the 18th Century. This is fitted, with a flared skirt and cutaway collar.

Fabrics used are chiefly gabardine, wool jersey, twill and wool melton.

Colors are bright and often beautifully teamed. But navy, taupe, gray and white still hold their own.

Raspberry, lemon, tangerine, orange and lime may sound like an order for the fruit market but these shades will be dotting every avenue on the backs of fashionable women this season.

Combined colors will include the patriotic red, white and blue; brown, black and ecru; black and white, and lemon and navy. Checks from mini to giant windowpanes will be much in evidence.

There's a coat style and color for everyone and shopping for it should pose no problem.

Swinging Teenagers Catch Eye of Top Rome Designers

By LEONORA DODSWORTH
AP Fashion Writer

ROME (AP) — The real woman, not the swinging teen-ager, is once more getting all the attention from designers in the Italian spring and summer fashion presentations.

Irene Galitzine offered the most feminine clothes so far in the Rome couture collections, although all the designers so far have abandoned the "beat" look in favor of the more mature beauty.

Petal-pleated skirts made a pretty play on dress and jacket outfits. On the move, the skirts spun and flickered. When still, they fell into soft, soft folds. Loose coats had the familiar bulky shoulders which are the Galitzine signature. All the interest was kept at the top, with high half-belts and horizontal welt seamings spanning the ribcage.

Redingotes and dresses — there were no suits — frequently had apron folds both front and back. They gave a sandwich-board look, which was echoed on the other dresses that carried neck-to-hem panels of buttoned-on plastrons. Yet another dress category had a softly gathered high waist.

Two tiers of shutter pleats formed the skirt on a long-bodied navy silk dress. It was accompanied by an elongated jacket with an open skirt neck and a pair of vertical slit pockets under the bust.

Alba and Francesca, the inventive Rome hairdressers who have put long locks back into fashion, gave independent suspension to the ponytail by anchoring it to the wearer's head on the end of a gold or silver metal spring.

FRAGRANCE NOW GOES to your head with a luxurious, perfumed hair spray. It keeps each hair in place through a round of daytime activities. This light formula with no lacquer to stiffen the hair or dull its sheen, keeps the hair soft and bouncy and completely comable.

Ski Spectacular Highlights Area's National Ski Week

An impressive schedule of events in recognition of National Ski Week (Jan. 20-29) was announced today by the Trail Sweepers Ski Club of Kingston.

National Ski Week is the 10-day "Fun for Everyone" celebration of skiing where skiing is not a requirement to participate. The area celebration headed by the Trail Sweepers will be one of the most impressive in the country.

The highlight perhaps is one of the largest community skiing exhibitions ever held. It is scheduled Friday, Jan. 27, at 7 p. m. in the Kingston Plaza and will be sponsored by the Kingston Plaza Merchants Association.

Ralph Smith, Patrol Leader of the Sweepers and club coordinator for National Ski Week, said certified professional ski instructors and qualified amateur instructors of the Trail Sweepers would participate in a demonstration of American ski technique, with emphasis on ski safety.

In addition the Sweepers' ski patrol will cover such facets as ski etiquette, lifeline courses, loading skis on the car, proper equipment, etc. Racing will be touched on briefly if time permits.

Concluding the exhibition will be the drawing for an all-expense paid ski weekend in Vermont furnished by the Kingston Plaza. Sherry Anzelone of Poughkeepsie, Miss. Trail Sweepers, 1966-67, will select the winning ticket.

Smith will be the master of ceremonies for the area ski spectacular, assisted by Dr. C. J. Goffredi, CPSI and approved Alpine racing official.

The Trail Sweepers' unprecedented calendar of events doesn't stop there, said Sharon Stahl, the club's public relations director. On the weekend of Jan. 20-22, the club will make its annual trip to Stowe, Vt. John Weeks, the club's activities chairman, said the Sweepers would be quartered at the Snowdrift Motel. The chartered bus departs from the IBM parking lot (south) at 6 p. m. Friday and returns late Sunday night.

Junior Trail Sweepers will receive skiing instructions Saturday Jan. 21 and 28 at Highmount from 11:30 to 1 p. m. and race instructions on Sundays of both weekends from 1 to 3 p. m. Junior members should contact Mrs. C. J. Goffredi, chairman of the junior program for further information.

Other events to be held in conjunction with National Ski Week:

Davos (Woodridge)—Amateur instructors pre-course, sponsored by Rip Van Winkle Ski Council, Saturday-Sunday, Jan. 28-29. Conducted by Trail Sweeper Peter Martini, CPSI and area director of Davos Ski Center. Instructors' examination, Feb. 4-5 at Davos.

Belleayre Ski Center—Saturday, Jan. 28—ski school first aid test for prospective patrolmen. Test is prerequisite to the toboggan test, Feb. 4-5, at Highmount. George Kelly, Belleayre patrol leader, to conduct test.

West Point Ski Club—New York State Intercollegiate meet, Jan. 29-30. Downhill on Saturday, slalom on Sunday. Expect approximately 15 teams (80-90 racers) from such schools as Cornell, Syracuse, MIT, and Clarkson.

Local Ski Areas

Locally, many ski centers plan to celebrate the week by staging torchlight parades, ski demonstrations, ski queen contests and many other attractions.

Hunter Mountain—Ski safety booth will be set up in base lodge manned by ski patrol and ski school members. Voluntary safety check at booth and qualifying for prizes to be held during National Ski Week. Kitty Falger has been designated "Hunter Safety Queen" and will present prizes to winning guests.

Belleayre Ski Center—New Jersey Ski Council Inter-Club Race Sunday, Jan. 22. Inter-club races for Metropolitan New York Ski Council, Saturday-Sunday, Jan. 28-29. Instructors' Torchlight Slalom, Saturday night, Jan. 28.

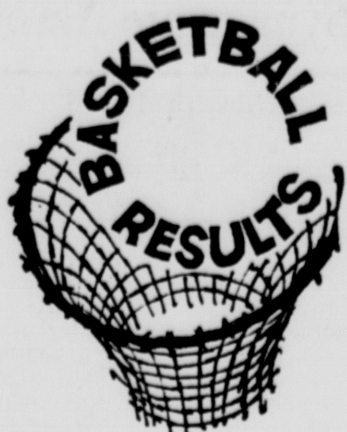

Highmount—Basic skiing proficiency test, 9:30 a. m.; intermediate skiing proficiency test, 12 noon, Saturday, Jan. 28, by Trail Sweepers.

Holiday Mountain—Monticello Junior III and IV (10-13 years) slalom race, 10 a. m., sponsored by Eastern Orange County Ski Club, member RVWSC. Winter carnival planned during week.

Mount Storm (Stormville)—Torchlight parade and Cliff Taylor "Instant Skiing—Shortie Ski" demonstration.

PROCLAIMS SKI WEEK: Mayor Raymond W. Garrahan of Kingston signs official proclamation noting the Kingston area participation in National Ski Week (Jan. 20-29). With the mayor at the ceremony are, Larry Gray, left, president of the Trail Sweepers Ski Club, and Donald DeKoskie, president of the Rip Van Winkle Ski Council. The mayor issued the proclamation for the third straight year, recognizing Kingston as a ski community and gateway to skiing in the Catskills.

More Action and Kicking --- Less Gadgetry..

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — More kicking, less electronic gadgetry and a little more actual playing time — that's what college football rules makers hope will develop from changes they've adopted.

The Rules Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association decided Wednesday to put the foot back in football and to outlaw electronic scouting devices, especially instant video-tape replays.

The fans will be getting more football for their money under a new rule which stops the clock when the ball changes hands.

until it is put into play by the defensive team.

"This should add about two minutes of actual playing time to the game," said Dave Nelson, head coach at the University of Delaware.

Committee Chairman Fritz Crisler, University of Michigan athletic director, said it was decided "there have been too many fair catches on kicks from scrimmage and it's the unanimous feeling that this should change."

meeting involved clarifications of existing regulations.

Rather than ban the tackle-eligible play as proposed by a coaches subcommittee, the rule was modified to prohibit the offensive team from flanking any player, back or lineman, outside the eligible tackle.

Coach May Confer

A new rule allows coaches to confer with one player during any charged timeout.

A team which takes possession of the ball either by punt, fumble or intercepted pass won't have to give up the ball should it have a penalty called against on the same play. The team will also retain possession if there are offsetting penalties on the same play.

It was agreed to appoint a committee of college coaches to work with a similar group of high school coaches to draw up a common code of ethics which apply to both levels of competition.

The committee, in another resolution, also put it up to the coaches themselves to insure that helmets are used as safety devices and not weapons to be used for so-called spearing of opponents.

Coleman Cagers Top St. Patrick's Newburgh, 58-36

John Coleman School combined steady shooting with strong rebounding to blast St. Patrick's of Newburgh, 58-36 at Coleman yesterday.

The Coleman attack was paced by Dave McGrath who led the offense with 14 points and snared 11 rebounds. Pete Stenson played tenacious defense and pulled down 10 rebounds.

Bob Bouchard and Pat Harder were the playmakers hitting McGrath underneath for several key baskets. Harder canned 10 points, his current season average.

Coach Pat Taaffe's quintet will host J. W. Bailey Friday at 4 p. m.

Box Score:

Interior linemen on the kicking team will now have to hold their positions until the ball is kicked, thus allowing the player receiving the punt about two additional seconds.

All electronic scouting gear will be prohibited during games, and specific mention was made of video-tape replays which could be flashed back to the coaches.

The committee agreed that many teams, both on college and junior college levels, won't be able to afford the electronic devices, but the temptation will be great to do so.

Most of the 15 rules changes agreed to during the three-day

Are copycats as good as Tiger Paws?

We made a terrible mistake in putting red circles on our Tiger Paws. It made Tiger Paws so easy to imitate. And it made it easy for some dealers who sell these copycats to palm them off as Tiger Paws. Who do they think they're fooling? You. And they'll continue to fool you until you discover that your "Tiger Paws" aren't living up to their reputation. How could they? Copycats only look like Tiger Paws. Friends, be warned: Tiger Paws are made only by U.S. Royal. And sold only by U.S. Royal dealers. And anybody who tells you different, isn't your friend.

pic team gymnast; Joe Palone, soccer coach at West Point; Mary Potter, women's lacrosse enthusiast from Drexel Institute and Chris Kevatos, president of the Eastern Athletic trainers.

SIDELINE VIEWS

By ED PALLADINO

Though the official opening of the building is almost two years away, a complete athletic program is being planned for the new John A. Coleman High School in Kingston.

The job of getting the athletic program off the ground floor is in the hands of 24-year-old Pat Taaffe, a New York City native and the school's athletic director.

• A Complete Program

Taaffe is hopeful of fielding varsity teams in soccer, basketball, baseball, cross country and track. A good basis for his optimism is the fact the new school, to be constructed in the Town of Hurley, at the site of the old Wiltwyck Golf Club, Route 209, has an abundance of property.

Plans call for a 1,500 seat gymnasium, fields for baseball and soccer and a track, complete with facilities for field events. Preliminary indications are the co-educational school will open its doors to students in September, 1968. Until then, classes are being held at St. Ursula's in Kingston, formerly a girl's high school.

• Made UCAL Application

With a proposed enrollment of 300 boys by 1970, Coleman has applied for admittance to the Ulster County League. A letter has been sent to Fred Bement of Marlboro, circuit president and it's expected the league will discuss the application at its spring meeting.

This year, the school has fielded a frosh basketball team and Taaffe has put together a full schedule. "We aren't winning much, but experience gained has been invaluable," he said.

The freshman class has 45 boys. There will be two classes next season and another will be added each year until the present freshman students are ready to receive diplomas.

• Cardinal Hayes Graduate

Taaffe attended schools in the Bronx and graduated from Cardinal Hayes. He went to college at Iona. Prior to coming to Coleman, he taught at St. John Vianney in the Bronx.

Though he serves as the school's athletic director, Taaffe is primarily a history teacher. He's hopeful of obtaining a degree in physical education.

If the UCAL fails to approve Coleman's request, Taaffe doesn't know the next step. We suggested a league with the area's Catholic High Schools and he was very receptive to the idea.

• Competitive Exams

Despite what might be thought about athletic scholarships, Coleman selects its students on the basis of competitive examinations. The exams have already been administered for next year. John A. Coleman High School is under the direction of the Sisters of Saint Ursula. Sister Mary Gerald is principal.

The school is not co-institutional but co-educational. The difference? At a co-institutional school, the boys and girls do not attend classes together. Our Lady of Lourdes is a co-institutional high school.

• A Warm Welcome

We hope the Coleman School has much success in its attempts at fielding athletic teams. Pat Taaffe will probably age well beyond his 24 years by the time his clubs are ready to compete against other schools of the same size.

But, we know the community will welcome the school, its teachers and students. We know its stay will be a permanent one.

Laundermat Tops Frontier League

The Frontier League offers the biggest prize in town and has one of the tightest races at Ferraro's with JGW Laundermat leading by a single game.

The big prize is of course that $1,000 to the winner and just about anyone in the league is in position to grab it. There's only six games between the top team and the ninth team. The last place team is 15 games out in the 20-team handicap league but there's still 57 games to go.

Bob Burgher leads the loop with a 178 average. Others include Bill Kosyk 176, Joe Ferraro 175, Augie Calao Jr. 172, Harry Wolf 172, Jim Daly 172, Bob Bell 172, Lou Finkheiner 171, Karl Borst 170, George Wal-jack 170.

JGW Laundermat has the high series, 2803 and the high single, 981. Al Sangler has the high series, 650 and high single, 257.

Bill Lamoureux is the league president and Augie Calao is the secretary with help from Mrs. Calao who does most of the arithmetic.

Sends Bobby $2 For Haircut to Maintain Image

By KELLY SMITH
WASHINGTON (AP)—A New Yorker — concerned about the image of the Empire State — has sent Sen. Robert F. Kennedy $2 for a haircut.

Emanuel F. Manheimer, 25, Ossining, N.Y., said Kennedy's bushy head had bothered him for some time. But seeing the senator on television last week on the night of President Johnson's State of the Union message really was the last straw, he said.

Party Irrelevant
"It is irrelevant whether I am a registered Democrat or Republican," Manheimer wrote the New York Democrat Wednesday. "The only point is that I am and have been all my life a resident of the state of New York."

"I am enclosing a check in the amount of $2," he said, "to maintain an image that the country might have of the Empire State." He said that when he once worked as a state park employee his boss "wouldn't allow us to report to work like that."

Kennedy apparently was unconcerned.

"I got a haircut Monday. Tell Mr. Manheimer to watch me at my next public appearance," he said through an office spokesman.

The clip was anything but close.

Gets Much Mail

Manheimer, president of EBM Associates — an investment and real estate firm, is not the first to suggest Kennedy's office readily admits he gets a "fair amount of mail" on the subject, particularly after a public or television appearance. Mail is both pro and con. Money that some other letter-writers have sent for haircuts has been turned over to charities, a Kennedy aide said. He said Manheimer's letter had not arrived.

Kennedy's bushy hair also draws some barbs from fellow senators.

When Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen arrived one day with his locks tousled more than usual, a colleague in the Senate chamber said, "You're looking more like Bobby every day."

Quipped Dirksen: "Well, I thought we might as well have Beatles on each side of the aisle."

Airmen Face Terms

MONTREAL (AP)—Three U. S. Air Force men stationed in Plattsburgh, N.Y., face sentencing here Feb. 7 in the New Year's Eve armed robbery of two stores of a total of under $150.

The airmen, Edward Wilson, 18, Johnston Fountain, 20, and Wayne Robinson, 20, pleaded guilty Wednesday before Judge Marcel Gagnier who set the sentencing date.

Meeting Slated On Fertilizers

A meeting sponsored by Ulster County Extension Service will be held at New Paltz High School Tuesday, Jan. 24 from 8 to 10 p. m. Robert D. Guzowich, cooperative extension agent, has announced that Prof. Shaw Reid, Cornell extension agronomist will be the discussion leader.

"Fertilizer For All Crops," will be the topic. A fertilizer program for all 1967 crops is a very timely one for consideration at this time of the year. Among the questions to be discussed is "are you fertilizing corn, when should nitrogen be applied to corn, what about side dressed nitrogen for corn," as well as other questions for use of plant food on corn crops.

Ulster County has a large poultry enterprise with tons of available poultry manure. Material on the value of poultry manure on field crops will be discussed.

Also of interest to dairymen is alfalfa fertilization. This is neglected on too many Ulster County farms. The discussion leader will present material on an annual program of fertilizer application for alfalfa.

Gets Electric Contract

Jack Goldstein, president of ERA Electrical Corporation, today told The Freeman that his firm was low bidder on a $12,540 contract to do the electrical work on air conditioning for the Gov. Alfred E. Smith State Office Building in Albany. Goldstein said work would begin Friday and would be completed by May 15.

Workers Return To Welfare Jobs

NEW YORK (AP) — Striking Welfare Department employees return to work today after voting to accept a mediator's proposal for fact-finding on the critical issue of wages.

The end of the three-day workstoppage was signaled Wednesday night at a noisy meeting of the Social Service Employees Union where leaders urged acceptance of mediator Benjamin Wolf's proposal.

City Labor Relations Director Herbert L. Haber had earlier agreed to fact-finding but on the condition that the strikers return to their jobs.

Mrs. Judith Mage, president of the 7,500-member independent union, said after the meeting that the vote was about 2½-to-1 in favor of fact-finding and a return to work.

But dissidents jeered "sell out," "sell out" as the session broke up and some members hinted that the agreement might not be accepted.

"I'll go back tomorrow," said one woman, "but I wouldn't be surprised if there was a wildcat strike by some."

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The small Arab state of Kuwait has one of the world's largest sources of oil. Daily production is well over two million barrels and annually yields the government about $1 billion in royalties. As a result, Kuwait has no taxes except custom duties; medical care, education and social security are free for all citizens.

Troop 12 Indians Hold 1st Annual Fete at Elmer's

One hundred and 53 members of the Troop 12 B.S.A. Indians, Administration, and families and friends of the Corps assembled for the first annual Indians' banquet, at Elmer's Inn, Ruby, last Saturday night.

The Rev. Robert J. Creech, corps chaplain, addressed the group in remembrance of Al Rossi, friend, counselor and bugle instructor with the Corps for over 12 years, who had died suddenly. A minute of silence was observed in his memory, which was followed by the invocation.

After dinner, Corps Director Ralph Shapiro introduced those seated at the head table starting with newly appointed Assistant Director Fred Brown and Mrs. Brown; Ambassadors' Director George Acker, and Mrs. Acker; Corps Business Manager Gerald Sampson; Drill Instructor Ralph Shur, and Mrs. Shur; Drum Instructor Jack Pratt and Mrs. Pratt; former director of the Garfield Cadets, Edward Kwasnik, Mrs. Kwasnik and son Edward; Dinner Arrangements Chairman Joseph Sottile and Mrs. Sottile; and Troop Committee Chairman Alfred Townsend.

The director extended recognition to Rudy Wells, chairman of the 1966 Christmas trees sale project, who in turn expressed his appreciation to those men and boys who had assisted in making this annual venture a success. Wells awarded 25 sport shirts to those members who put in five or more days on this project. Fifteen sport shirts were awarded also to those boys who brought new members into the Corps during its recent recruiting drive.

List New Trophies

It was announced that at next year's banquet, two new and special awards would be made, a trophy for the Corpsman of the Year, and one for the Rookie of the Year. It was also noted that a Graduation Pin is being designed, and all those members serving at least five years, and, or, reaching 21 years of age while still a member, would be qualified as recipients.

The first speaker was Shur, former director of the New York Kingsmen. He gave both corps members and parents the ingredients of a winning corps, which in gist was: "A corps becomes great from its overwhelming desire to be great, top corps spirit, and a willingness to sacrifice and work to achieve perfection. There is no substitute for constant individual practice, always striving for greater perfection, and developing good team-work within the corps as a unit. Hard-driving winter and spring practice is what makes winners during the summer season."

Speaks To Parents

Second speaker was Pratt, member of the USMA Band, West Point, and well-experienced hand in the drum corps world both as drum instructor and judge. Pratt primarily directed his thoughts to the role that parents must play in Drum Corps activity, and drove home two essential points. "Support your son's desire to be in drum corps by your personal encouragement of him to practice and to make all rehearsals, and by your example of interest and enthusiasm for that which he is doing. Support the activities of the corps itself, by helping the director and his staff in all corps projects. They are working for your son, and you should be in there working too. Finally, he made the point that parents must leave the running of the corps to the members of the staff. Their years of experience makes them the most qualified, so trust them to do a good job."

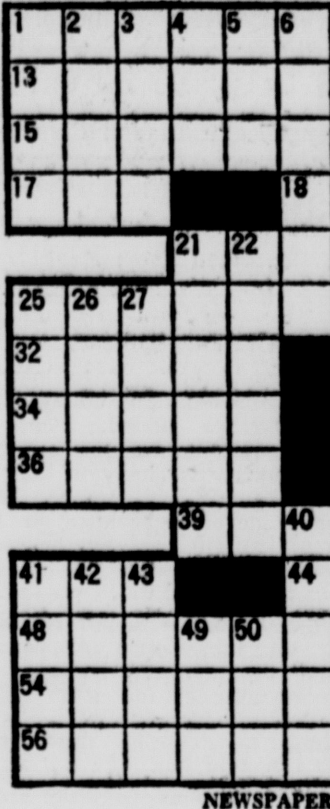

Last but not least, Kwasnik, (Uncle Ed) to the corps, brought the good wishes of the Garfield Cadets and their Nothing Club to the Indians.

Frank Williams and his Combo, Corporation of Sound, provided the music.

hints from

Heloise

Dear Heloise:
When I am not going to sew for a few days, here is the way I oil my sewing machine.

The first thing I always do is remove the needle and bobbin. Underneath the machine head, I lay a folded newspaper to catch any little drops of oil, then oil away.

Before I thread the machine again, I replace the needle and then sew on an old piece of cloth until no signs of oil are visible.

This has saved many, many materials from having oil spots on them.

Mrs. S. K. Martin

Dear Mrs. Martin:

I think you have an absolutely fabulous idea to unthread the machine and remove the needle AND BOBBIN first. I have never thought of that.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Save those old school ring binders. The center metal part with the rings makes a wonderful belt holder. Just take out the beads that hold it to the cover.

It can be either nailed or screwed to the wall inside the clothes closet on the inside of the door.

It can also be used as a hanger for keys. Put it inside the cupboard door or wherever desired.

Mrs. Gordon Jacobson

Dear Heloise:

Stretch a strong rubberband around the neck of a plastic bag, to secure it on the ring collar where the ground meat comes out of your meat grinder.

The ground food will fall neatly into the bag and can be immediately stored away in your freezer or refrigerator.

No spilled food, juices or extra pans to wash.

Helen Mack

Dear Heloise:

For mothers who have playpens...if you run out of space to hang clothes to dry (especially diapers), simply gather up all of your mops and brooms with long handles and place them across the top of the playpen.

Hang your laundry over the handles.

My diapers dry over night!

Mrs. C. M. McRae

Dear Heloise:

I buy pretty prints (of good grade) and make print pillow cases. I always keep some of them on hand.

I give one or two pairs of them to a person instead of flowers, when they are to be convalescing from an illness or surgery.

For men, I use prints they would like and colors that would be attractive for use in a den.

For women, I usually use a print of white background with rosebuds.

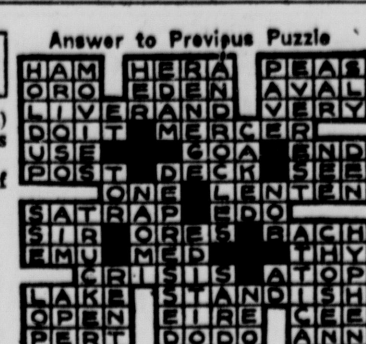

I use airplane, ship, or animal prints for children.

Dear Heloise:

I read in your column where a reader suggested using cotton gloves instead of rubber ones to prevent dampness and odor.

For many years it has been necessary for me to wear lined rubber gloves when dusting, washing dishes, etc.

YMCA Schedules Easter Trip to Nation's Capital

The YMCA of Kingston and Ulster County will sponsor an educational tour to Washington, D. C. for boys and girls in the fifth, sixth, and junior high school grades. The trip is scheduled in conjunction with the Easter Vacation of Kingston and Ulster County schools Mar. 27, 28, and 29.

Johnson Names N.J. Man Acting Commerce Head

WASHINGTON (AP) — The resignation of John T. Connor as secretary leaves the Commerce Department stripped of its top hierarchy. And it soon will lose many of its functions to the new Department of Transportation.

The task of reorganizing a smaller department for possible merger with the Labor Department now falls to Alexander B. Trowbridge, 37, a native of New Jersey.

President Johnson, in accepting Connor's resignation Wednesday, named Trowbridge acting secretary. He had been assistant secretary of commerce for domestic and international business since May 6, 1965.

Connor's resignation, rumored for many months, followed last week's swearing in of Alan S. Boyd as secretary of the new Department of Transportation.

Boyd had been undersecretary of commerce for transportation, considered the department's No. 2 post.

The No. 2 post — that of undersecretary — has been vacant since the resignation last year of LeRoy Collins, former governor of Florida.

Machinists Head For Showdown With Rail Lines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Machinists' Union, which staged history's biggest airlines strike last year, now is heading for a showdown with the nation's railroads.

President P. L. (Roy) Siemiller of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists says his union won't settle for a 5 per cent wage hike pattern other unions have accepted from the railroad industry.

Threatens Strike

"We'll take a strike on it unless they come up with more than 5 per cent," Siemiller told newsmen.

He said the 43,000 railroad machinists are in much the same position as the 35,000 airline machinists before last summer's strike in falling behind other industries in wages.

The railroads, Siemiller said, once provided the highest paying jobs, but "the poorest job a machinist can get today is to go to the railroad industry."

A Machinists' spokesman said its members in the railroad industry earned $3.05 per hour, compared with 4 or more in most other industries.

Boosted Pay

The union's six-week strike against five major airlines last summer boosted top mechanics' pay in that industry from $3.52 to $4.08 per hour by the end of next year, plus cost-of-living wage hikes up to 6 cents an hour.

The airlines contract provided wage and fringe benefit increases variously estimated at 5 to 7 per cent.

Under delaying provisions of the Railway Labor Act, the government probably can stave off any railroad strike threat until next June.

Siemiller said a 5 per cent "catch-up" wage hike, plus another 5 per cent in line with the current pattern of general labor settlements, would be a more reasonable railroad offer.

Teeners in Court On School Trouble

One of two defendants charged with disorderly conduct after reported trouble at the local high school pleaded guilty in city court today and was sentenced. James Kiernan Jr., 17, of Walton's Lane, Town of Ulster, was fined $25 plus a suspended sentence of 30 days in jail with provision that a day in jail be served for each $1 of the fine not paid. He agreed to pay the fine.

The other defendant, Thomas J. Davide, 19, of 65 Abel Street, pleaded innocent and a trial is set for Feb. 9. The charges grew of the reported breaking of a blackboard and were lodged by William J. Smurl, of 180 Albany Avenue, a teacher. Police said restitution had been made for the breaking of the blackboard.

Ex-Deputy Charged

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The Justice Department has filed a misdemeanor charge against a former Elmore County deputy sheriff, claiming he assaulted a Negro found dead in a cell at the county jail last Nov. 20.

The federal charge against Harvey King Conner was filed in U.S. District Court Tuesday and Conner was summoned to appear for arraignment March 1.

The trend was slightly lower among autos, oils, chemicals, airlines, rails and drugs. Up a little were tobaccos, rubbers, building materials and electronics.

Sperry Rand Caterpillar and U.S. Smelting gained about a point each.

Up fractionally were Johnson-Manville, Goodrich, Woolworth, American Telephone and Standard Oil (New Jersey).

Ford, General Motors, United and TWA were among the many fractional losers.

Biggest early block was 59,300 shares of A. H. Robins, off ¾ at 46.

Medal of Honor Will Be Given to Air Force Major

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force, with a big assist from President Johnson, pays tribute today to the first man from that service to win the Medal of Honor in the Vietnam war.

Maj. Bernard F. Fisher, 40, veteran of 200 Vietnam combat sorties, receives from Johnson the nation's highest award for "conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of his life above and beyond the call of duty."

First for Air Force

Because Fisher is the first in the Air Force to win the coveted medal for Vietnam duty, the always colorful presentation ceremony is being dressed up a bit.

For one thing, the setting is the south grounds of the White House, with a full military review, another unusual feature.

Fisher, from Kuna, Idaho, flew through Communist fire and hazardous weather to rescue a crash-landed fellow pilot from a battle-scarred air strip near Ashau in South Vietnam last March 10.

Brought from a Florida air base for the ceremony was the man for whom he risked his life to pluck from the ground, Lt. Col. Dafford W. Myers. Also invited were three other pilots who flew air cover for Fisher while he made the rescue.

Rescues Colleague

An estimated 2,000 Communist troops had surrounded the Special Forces camp at Ashau when Fisher, seeing that Myers had crash-landed on the nearby air strip, landed, taxied almost the full length of the 2,500-foot runway and rescued his colleague.

A native of San Bernardino, Calif., Fisher attended the University of Utah and entered the Air Force as a student officer in 1951. He served in Vietnam from July 1965 to June 1966 with the First Air Commando Squadron.

Now stationed at Hahn Air Base in West Germany, Fisher was flown to Washington with his wife, Rella Jane, and their five sons who range in age from 6 to 16.

Seven other servicemen have been presented Medals of Honor for Vietnam heroisms.

Two Note Injuries In Local Mishaps

Two persons reported injuries after city traffic mishaps, one early today and the other Wednesday.

Walter Stanley, 36, of Union City, N. J., reported a head injury after his car hit a tree at Wall and Warren Streets at 1:20 a. m. today. He told police he had fallen asleep. Officers Raymond Wells and Edward Coughlin investigated.

In the other reported early Wednesday afternoon, Patricia Oakley, 19, of RD 2, Box 141-C, Kingston, suffered a forehead injury and was to be treated by a doctor. Police said the one car was driven by Carol J. Alpaugh, 47, of the same address, of Flower Hill, Town of Hurley. They collided near the Sears Roebuck store, Kingston Plaza. Officer Douglas Longo investigated.

Marine Midland Income

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Marine Midland Corp. reported today its 1966 net income totaled $30.2 million, a gain of $2.8 million over 1965.

The 1966 earnings were equal to $2.67 per share of common stock against $2.40 in the preceding year, on income of $27.4 million.

The state's largest bank holding company said net income in the fourth quarter of 1966 totaled $8.6 million, or 77 cents a share, compared with $7.4 million, or 65 cents a share in the last three months of 1965.

Dies on Street

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Albert R. Schoyen, 49, of Syracuse, a professor of history at Syracuse University's Maxwell School, was found dead early today on a city street.

Police said Schoyen apparently fell while walking to his automobile.

An autopsy was to be performed.

He lived at 123 Westminster Ave.

PLAN UNITY SERVICE — Participating pastors discuss plans for annual Unity Prayer Service for all faiths to be held Sunday 8 p. m. at First Baptist Church, Albany Avenue at Broadway. Service was announced jointly by Bishop James E. McManus, CSSR, Episcopal vicar of Sullivan and Ulster Counties and the Rev. Dr. David C. Gaise, pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer.

facts to make a judgment." Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin said in an interview.

"It would be hard to tolerate a 12-15-18-20-billion dollar deficit," Byrnes added. "On the other hand, it might be better if the economy is shaky to tolerate a deficit of $6-7 billion than have a tax increase because of the effect it might have on the economy."

Chrysler Recalls 18,124 of Models For Malfunctions

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. recalled 18,124 of its 1967 model cars Wednesday in a search for possible brake and electrical malfunctions.

And the firm sent 120,215 other new-car owners letters saying some windshield-wiper motors might freeze up during cold weather.

In all, more than 138,000 autos are involved in the warnings.

The firm said only 4,720 of the 18,124 cars may have brake or electrical system defects but "we are recalling all of them because we are not sure which cars may be involved."

The nation's third largest auto maker advised owners of Plymouth Fury and Dodge Polara and Monaco models to test their windshield wipers in cold weather. If the wiper motors fail to work, a spokesman said, the firm is urging the car owners to bring vehicles into dealers for replacement.

The possible brake and electrical system defects were discovered during quality-control engineering tests and there were no known reports of malfunctions from customers, Chrysler said.

Of the 18,124 cars, the recalls include:

Says U. S. to Gain By Any Points Given North Viets

NEW YORK (AP) — Harrison E. Salisbury, an assistant managing editor of The New York Times, says that if there might be "a temporary gain for the enemy" as a result of his reports from North Vietnam, "in the end the value would come to us."

Salisbury appeared Wednesday night on an hour-long television panel discussion with three other members of The New York Times staff. He also was interviewed after the National Educational Television program, "The News in Perspective."

Opponent Unknown

He said that for a number of years the United States has been "fighting a tough, hard, determined opponent without knowing very much about what that opponent was like or what it was like behind the lines."

Salisbury said he did not go to Hanoi to "support the Pentagon" in what he called "propaganda absurdities." He said that until he reported on casualties and damage in civilian areas of North Vietnam, the Johnson administration had maintained not only that civilians were not targets of U.S. aerial bombings, but that they were not being hit.

He said there is no doubt that the enemy would use for propaganda purposes any report that cast doubt on the communiques of the U.S. government or which indicated that the situation in North Vietnam was not as it had been understood by the American people.

Served as Instrument

Lester Markel, an associate editor of the Times who made the introduction on the program, said critics had charged that Salisbury had served as a propaganda instrument for Hanoi and that his remarks were favorable to Hanoi.

Salisbury said the reason that North Vietnam granted him a two-week visa to visit the country was that they hoped "to use me as a propaganda tool." He denied he had served Hanoi's interests.

He said he was preferred over other Western correspondents seeking admission to North Vietnam because he represented "the most influential newspaper in America" and because "I was more persistent and pursued my application for admission more actively" over an 18-month period.

that most lacked clear authority to comply.

"It is essential," he said, that the Legislature take action to provide an adequate grant of power.

Under terms of the bill, a local legislative body would be given a variety of choices in adopting apportionment yardsticks. They could base their apportionment on total population, citizen population or registered voters. They also could set up multi-representative districts — for example, keeping towns intact by allotting the smallest town one representative and the larger towns several representatives.

The Democratic plan proposed to restrict them to citizen population and single-representative districts. Thus, towns and villages would have to be divided into one-representative units.

As last year, the GOP bill provides for a permissive referendum, so that voters could pass on any plan adopted by the local legislative body. A board could decide on its own to submit its plan to the electorate or, on petition of 5 per cent of the registered voters — it would be required to do so.

Vote Deals Blow For Bipartisan Talkathon Move

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 61-37 vote has halted a bipartisan drive for a stronger Senate filibuster rule.

The only hope left for those who want to make it easier to halt filibusters is to muster a two-thirds majority to bring the debate on rules to a close.

A chance to do this will be offered under a cloture petition to be filed by leaders of both parties and other senators.

However, Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen told reporters that although he will sign the debate-closing petition, he will vote against it and expects it to fail.

The petition automatically will come to a vote next Tuesday under a rule requiring two-thirds majority of senators voting to end debate.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield wouldn't forecast the outcome of Tuesday's vote. But he said if it were close and it appeared a second cloture petition would have any possibility of success, he would make another try before turning to other matters.

To Quiz Tax Man At Baker's Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tax expert faces defense cross-examination today in the Bobby Baker trial.

Baker, former secretary to Senate Democrats, is accused of income tax evasion, larceny, transportation of stolen money and conspiracy.

The tax expert, Glen D. Harrison, testified Wednesday in U.S. District Court that according to his computations Baker underpaid his 1961 income tax by $1,058.41, and his 1962 tax by $21,082.42.

Named to Commission

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arthur A. Houghton Jr., president of the Steuben Glass Co. and director of Corning Glass Works, has been appointed to an American Revolution Bicentennial Commission.

Houghton, of New York City, was among 25 members named Wednesday by President Johnson. The commission will make plans for marking the 200th anniversary of the revolution.

Mansfield Critical Of 'Marking Time'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield criticized the administration today for "marking time" on reducing U.S. forces in Europe.

He said he is reintroducing with regret a resolution he proposed last year calling for a substantial cutback in the number of American troops in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces.

Mansfield, in a Senate speech, said he found it regrettable that nothing has happened since the close of the last session to indicate that this resolution is any less necessary today than it was several months ago.

Note Unreported Crime

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three times more U.S. crime goes officially unreported than surfaces in police statistics, a national crime commission is preparing to report.

For property crimes such as thefts, the ratio is even higher, the commission's figures reportedly will show.

The commission report is due to go to President Johnson Monday but probably will not be released until mid-February.

The report is expected to say that a principal reason for unreported crime is the feeling among many persons that it is futile to tell the police of minor property thefts.

Income Up, Costs Too

WASHINGTON (AP) — Personal income during 1966 took its biggest jump in 15 years. But the Commerce Department says inflation ate away a good part of the gain.

Income received by individuals from all sources rose $45.3 billion to $580.4 billion, up 8.5 per cent from 1965, the department said Wednesday.

Personal income after taxes rose $156 per capita from 1965 to 1966, reaching a record $2,567 for every man, woman and child in the nation. But the jump was only $80 in terms of real dollar buying power, said the department.

On Rules Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Democrats with liberal voting records have been named to the vacancies on the House Rules Committee, apparently assuring Democratic leadership of committee control.

The new committee members are Reps. Spark M. Matsunaga of Hawaii and William R. Anderson of Tennessee.

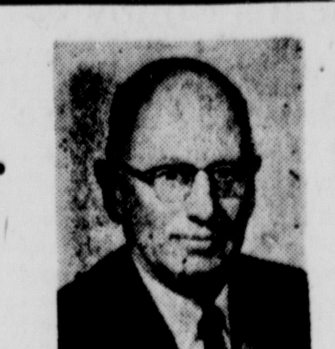

Democrats control the committee 10 to 5, but new Chairman William M. Colmer, D-Miss., is expected to frequently vote with the Republicans.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

Investment Advisor & Analyst
Soldier in Korea
Advised on Stocks

Q "I am in the U. S. Army, in Korea. I receive your syndicated column from my sister at home. My brother (also in the service) and I hold jointly: Control Data; Ford; Great Western Financial; Metromedia; EG&G; Westinghouse Electric. We can't do business easily during our tours of duty, but we are interested in capital appreciation and would like your advice." Sp4 R.A.

A) I am very much pleased to hear from you and from other servicemen in faraway places. I would hold Control Data, which seems to have mounted the problems which plagued earnings in fiscal 1965-1966. The computer business is a tough and competitive one, but the outlook for your rather specialized company appears promising. Ford has not been a satisfactory holding from a price standpoint for several years. I would switch this issue into Becton, Dickinson, EG&G—with a strong position in nuclear instruments—is one of the best of the science stocks. This issue should be held, in my opinion. Great Western Financial should be retained as a speculation on earnings recovery. Metromedia has a good potential for appreciation. Westinghouse Electric is a rather prosaic stock which seems likely to move pretty much with the market as a whole. For your objective, I would switch this stock into Carlisle Corp., which has been compiling an impressive record of earnings gains.

Q "Would you please comment on United Gas Improvement, which I own?"—E. H.

A) Gladly. Your company distributes natural gas in eastern Pennsylvania and electricity in some areas of that state. Growth has been steady, but the stock, like other gas utilities, has failed to attract investment favor. It is a sound holding for 5.5 per cent yield and moderate appreciation. If that meets your requirements, UGI should be retained. If you wish stronger growth with considerably less yield, I would switch to American Electric.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Core of Arctic Air Pushes Into Northeast

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Biting cold which numbed much of the Midwest in winter's iciest weather spread eastward today with the core of the arctic air centered in the Northeast.

The early morning reading at Bemus Point, in western New York near Jamestown, was -25 degrees. Much of western and northern New York shivered under subzero temperatures, as did parts of Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire and Pennsylvania. Marks of 10 to 20 degrees below zero were prevalent in northern New England with zero to 10 above in southern sections.

Temperatures moderated in the frigid Midwest after Wednesday's subzero wave, with below-zero reported early today in northern sections of North Dakota and Minnesota. Eighteen states reported readings of below zero Wednesday with -47 at Hibbing, in northern Minnesota, the lowest official mark.

Freezing rain, snow and freezing drizzle slicked highways across areas in the south today. Hazardous-driving warnings were posted by the Weather Bureau for northern and central Louisiana, extreme southern Arkansas and parts of central and northern Mississippi.

Light snow fell in parts of the north central states. Heavy snow covers many areas in the northern Midwest from storms earlier this week.

A Pacific storm lashed the north Pacific Coast with rain and increasing winds and snow fell in interior sections of the Northwest. Gale warnings were displayed along the coast from Point St. George, Calif., to Tatoosh Island, Wash. One inch of snow fell in the Spokane area and it had spread eastward into western Montana and northwestern Wyoming.

Classes Merge To Form Area Church Body

The Reformed Church Classes of Poughkeepsie and Ulster were formally incorporated into the Classis of Mid-Hudson at a joint meeting this week.

Churches included in the new classis are all Reformed Churches in Ulster County as far south as New Paltz and all of Dutchess County.

The Rev. William Babinski of New Hackensack was elected president of the new organization. Other officers and trustees are the Rev. Harold F. Schadeveld of Hurley, vice president; the Rev. Donald E. Hicks of Woodstock, staskill, treasurer; Floyd Ellsworth of Port Ewen, treasurer of invested funds; Burton Whitaker of Poughkeepsie and the Rev. Orville J. Hine of Saugerties, members-at-large.

3-Year Study

This consolidation is the result of three years of study, planning and experiment, in an effort to simplify and streamline the work of the Reformed Church in the Mid-Hudson Valley. Many of the old lines of demarcation are an inheritance from earlier days, when conditions of travel and communication demanded smaller units. It is felt that more efficient work can be done by the larger grouping. Legal guidance in the deliberations of the body were given by Attorney S. James Matthews of Kingston.

At the evening meal, served by the ladies of the Rhinebeck Reformed Church in their new fellowship quarters, the Revs. Richard and Lake of Bloomington, and John Needham of Mount Marion brought reports on the studies of the function of the Town and Country Church held recently in Ohio. Joseph Trindle, and his wife, Dr. Margaret Trindle, medical missionaries to Morocco, were introduced to the body, and thanks were extended to the Rev. Mr. Cordes and the hostesses by the Rev. Mr. Orquist of Beacon Reformed Church.

In evening devotions, the Rev. Mr. Babinski laid emphasis on the centrality of the preaching of the Word as the tap-root of strength for the many and varied functions of the Church of Christ in today's world. The time-honored designation "V.D.M. (Verbum Dei Minister), 'Minister of the Word of God,' still stands as the trademark of the Ministry of the Church.

Continues Plea Of Innocent in Dutchess Slaying

Charged with first degree murder in connection with the strangulation slaying last August of a 22-year-old Poughkeepsie woman, Alfred F. Widziewicz Jr., 20, of Naugatuck, Conn., has withdrawn a plea of not guilty by reason of insanity and continues a plea of innocent.

Dutchess County District Attorney John R. Heilman Jr. told The Freeman today that three motions are still pending before County Judge Raymond C. Baratta and defense counsel has indicated that additional motions are being considered in the case.

Not on 'Ready' List

Heilman said the case has not been entered in the "ready" calendar for trial, and no definite date will be set until the Court rules on the motions by prosecution and the defense.

Since Widziewicz entered the plea of not guilty by reason of insanity, the defendant has been examined by a psychiatrist and found to be sane, it was learned. The Connecticut youth was indicted in Poughkeepsie last Aug. 15 on the murder charge and an additional charge of first degree grand larceny involving the alleged theft of a car belonging to the victim of the slaying, Sandra Boyster and her husband, Lester Boyster, 25, who resided at 60 Washington Street, Poughkeepsie, at the time of the alleged murder.

According to authorities, investigation of the death of the woman last summer disclosed that she died of strangulation and had been dead for some time before her trussed up body was discovered by her husband when he returned home from his Navy Base at Newport, R. I.

The young woman's hands had been bound with cloth and the same material had been tied tightly around her neck. Police learned that the Boyster family car was missing and teletype alarms with the registration number resulted in the recovery of the vehicle in Connecticut.

Picked Up 2 Days Later

Widziewicz was picked up two days after the discovery of the body and he was held without bail on a grand larceny charge involving automobile theft.

Police said that a few days before the slaying, Boyster drove to Connecticut with his wife. He was on his way back to the U. S. Navy Base where he was stationed. The young couple reportedly met and befriended Widziewicz and a woman, not identified, in a tavern.

The Navy man left and Mrs. Boyster agreed to give Widziewicz and his woman friend a ride to Poughkeepsie. For days the Connecticut couple stayed at the Boyster apartment and after the woman left, Widziewicz allegedly strangled the Poughkeepsie woman.
